JOHN ELLIS, England's hangman, retires from business, giving no reason. He hanged Roger Casement and Edith Thompson, the last woman hanged in Great Britain.

Ellis was paid fifty shillings, about $12.50, each time he hanged a human being. That was for the hanging. They paid him fifty shillings more, "for good conduct."

"GOOD CONDUCT" means that he must stay out of drinking saloons at the place of execution before and after the hanging. This made him lose money. In the old days public houses would pay the hangman to stand at the bar and drink drinks offered free by other customers.

The presence of the hangman increased trade. There was a rush to see him, hear what he had to say, and to see the hand that had fixed the knot under the left ear of famous criminals.

IF YOU think hanging or other capital punishment necessary "to frighten criminals," devote a moment's thought to Ellis, the British hangman.

If a crowd rushed to see him, buy him free drinks, and listened to his tales of horror, do you think hanging really prevents crime?

It does not. On the contrary, it stimulates crime, by stimulating admiration for the criminal.

THE J. Pierpont Morgan collection of valuable manuscripts exhibited to the public include a poem, "The Bear Hunt," by Abraham Lincoln, and this is how it begins:

A wild bear chase didst never see?
Then hast thou lived in vain—
Thy richest bump of glorious glee,
Lies desert in thy brain.

Here you learn that it is possible to be a great man and a very bad poet.

MR. ALBEE, who collects strange things and shows them, brings from Italy the strongest woman in the world. She can sustain the weight of a two-ton elephant, and allow men on horseback to ride over a bridge, the weight of which rests upon her.

IN OLD DAYS when muscular force was important, and Duquesclin, in his charge, broke the back of horse and rider, such a lady would have been courted by many.

She might have been that Amazon queen who told Alexander the Great that she would like to be the mother of his children, a message followed by an interesting meeting—Alexander having sent the only reply that a polite man could send—being a bachelor at time.

WHAT BECAME of the result of that meeting? Who knows but that the powerful Italian woman may be the descendant of Alexander the Great?

Now, however, a child moving an electric switch could raise a

PHONE CO. ASKS RATE BOOSTS

Would Make Private Branch Lines Pay More; Home Phones Not Affected

A petition asking an increase in telephone rates was filed today with the State Department of Public Utilities by the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company.

The company would increase rates on private branch lines and readjust time allowed for toll line calls.

Home telephones and individual business telephones are not affected by the proposed boost in rates, according to the telephone company.

"The New England Telephone & Telegraph Company needs more revenue," the company declared in an official statement following filing of the petition. "The revenue indications are unfavorable for 1924."

The proposed increase will affect service described as "special service," including station-to-station toll call service. On fifteen, twenty and twenty-five-cent toll calls the time for station-to-station calls would be reduced to three minutes instead of the five minutes now allowed. Excess talking periods, for which a given sum is charged, would be fixed at one minute per charge instead of the present five minutes per charge.

This is the schedule now existing for person-to-person toll calls regardless of distance, and to all station-to-station calls for longer distances than those in the twenty-five-cent zones.

Substantial increases are proposed on switchboards. "The charges for which at present are far below cost," "Appointment calls" and messenger calls also come in for a boost under the proposed increase.

Radio Receiving Conditions Tonight

Radio receiving conditions tonight will be good from stations broadcasting in the eastern section of the country and in the Middle West. Radio reception from western stations will be poor, due to a low barometric pressure area.

CLOTHING TORN, GIRL JUMPS FROM AUTO

Ulna Morse, Brockton Girl Who Figured in Kidnaping, Leaps From Parked Car

Brockton, April 2.—Sixteen-year-old Ulna Morse, blue-eyed and pretty, kidnaped from here last September and later found in Chattanooga, Tenn., popped into the limelight again today.

Mrs. Edwin White of Weston street, startled by the screams of a girl, rushed to an automobile parked at the corner of Pleasant street. A young girl, her clothing torn to shreds, jumped from the car and disappeared in the darkness. Two men in the car drove off.

Later, after a car had turned turtle a short distance away, police arrested "Tom" King of Bridgewater, and George Rochman, Brockton, pugilists.

King was one of the men whom the Morse girl, at the time of her disappearance, charged with luring her into the auto in which she was whisked away.

Before Judge King in Brockton Court today, a drunkenness charge against Rochman was filed. King was charged with driving without a license and with driving while under the influence of liquor. The case was continued until tomorrow.

RUSSIA SUSPECTED HOOVER AND AIDES

'WIDOW' IS GUILTY, SHE PLEADS

Beauty Accused by Amherst Students in Bad Check Cases Held in $600

Northampton, April 2.—From "Belle of the Campus" to a cell in the Northampton jail tells the story of Miss Margaret McBride, twenty-five, professional "college widow."

The charming young woman who transmuted the affections of her Amherst and Massachusetts Aggie admirers into good gold coin of the realm, via the worthless check route, today pleaded guilty to two charges of larceny by means of bad checks.

Unable to furnish $600 bail demanded by the court, the young woman who broke the college boys' hearts and also their bank-rolls with utter abandon, was locked up in jail and will remain there until April 9, when she will be sentenced.

SEARCHED FOR YEAR.

For almost a year the police were looking for Margaret. Her activities at Amherst and at the State Agricultural School caused a score or more of college boys—and an occasional professor to toll for the ladies they wanted to see Margaret—to have her explain the bad checks she had given cash.

The girl turned up in Boston and was promptly arrested and returned here. The two specific charges to which she pleaded guilty were those of $50 from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and larceny of the same amount from the Amherst National Bank.

CHECKS AS EVIDENCE.

Exhibits A, B, C, D, E, and so forth, until the end of the alphabet were displayed before the court in the form of checks—each of them bearing the signature, Margaret McBride, or an alias, and each of them containing the additional inscription, "No Good," "No Funds," "No Account," or the like.

Every check bore a tale—one of an interesting affair, admiration for feminine beauty, confidence, betrayal of confidence, disillusionment, financial loss and parental anger.

And it is said that there are just as many and more students at Harvard, Williams and Dartmouth, who are eager to meet her for the very same or similar reason.

When she dropped from sight a year ago after her sojourn at Amherst, the girl, it is alleged, left behind her a string of worthless checks.

And just as long a string of

'WIDOW' WEEKS ACCUSES

Tells Senate Probers the War Head Should Have Been Indicted in Air Frauds

Washington, April 2.—Testifying today before the Daugherty Investigation Committee, H. L. Seaife, a former Secret Service agent, declared that, in his opinion, Harry M. Daugherty and Secretary of War John W. Weeks should have been indicted "on charges of conspiracy to defraud the United States government."

The indictment, he said, should have been made in connection with the alleged aircraft frauds. He added that many fatal plane accidents were due to "criminal negligence."

He said he was "blocked in his investigation of these aircraft cases, which, he declared, involved the overpayment of millions of dollars.

All of America's wartime aviation secrets were bared to Japan through a great espionage system which extended to the ownership of the Standard Aircraft Corporation, Seaife charged in describing his investigation of the aerial concerns.

Seaife supported his charges with confidential reports from the naval intelligence service, which showed that "blue prints, plans and specifications," on every type of airplane made in this country fell into the possession of Japan.

BACKS UP CHARGES

Seaife connected the Standard Aircraft Company with the Japanese espionage system, charging it was owned by Mitsui & Co., Japanese bankers. He read a report filed with the naval intelligence service by Commander Ingersoll, U. S. A., which said:

"The machinery of the Standard Aircraft and Standard Aero Corporation was disposed of in this country by auction, but all plans of every description in the hands of these organizations were shipped to Japan at the time of their dissolution. Attention is invited to the fact that this includes complete data on every machine, both standard and experimental, that was handled in these plants. Further assurance has been received showing these companies were financed by Japanese capital."

In a second report which Seaife read Ingersoll said:

"Mingle, Finkelstein & Reich, Woolworth Building, acting as attorneys for Japanese interests, had some hand in the work of auctioneers who sold the contents of the Standard Aircraft plant. No other plant in

Train-Smashed Autos, Fallen Wires, Choked Traffic, in Disturbance's Wake

Boston's first "April Shower"—of the frozen variety—whirled to the northeast today, leaving in its wake a trail of broken wires, crippled telephones, fallen trees and twisted transportation schedules.

After swooping down on Boston in gale force, following its sweep along the Atlantic seaboard to the South, the disturbance was central off Portland, Me. late today, headed for Prince Edward Island and the other maritime provinces.

Another storm is scheduled for Sunday, according to the weather bureau. This storm is mobilizing in Southern California and is due to sweep in this direction.

Manchester, N. H., April 2.—Claudia Jodoin, twenty-one of No. 65 Pearl street, was found unconscious today in the deep snow at the corner of Wellington and Walnut streets. The girl left her home to go to work, but succumbed to the storm and fainted. She was discovered, several inches of snow covering her.

NEW YORK MAN NAMED TO CABINET

Coolidge Picks Ex-Columbia Dean and Amherst Graduate as Daugherty Successor

Washington, April 2.—Harlan Fiske Stone of New York has been selected by President Coolidge as Attorney-General to succeed Harry M. Daugherty.

Mr. Stone was for a long time connected with Columbia university.

Mr. Stone has been associated with the New York law firm of Satterlee, Canfield & Stone.

He is a native of New Hampshire and a graduate of Amherst. He is fifty-one years of age.

Mr. Stone was dean of Columbia Law School from 1910 to 1923, when he resigned to practice law.

Mr. Stone took his M. A. degree at Amherst in 1897. He was admitted to the bar in 1898, following graduation from the Columbia University Law School.

He became a Lecturer in Law in 1899, and was promoted to professor in 1902, becoming dean in 1910.

The appointee has been a contributor to legal publications, is president of the Association of American Law Schools, a member of the New York State Bar Association and the Legislative Drafting Research Fund.

Mr. Stone is a director of the Atlanta & Charlotte Air Line Railroad Company and other corporations. He is a Republican, although he never has taken a leading part in politics.

America ever had so much money to spend on experimental building. Their policy seemed to get the planes and get the supervision of all kinds of machines.

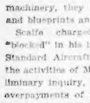
BLOCKED IN HIS PROBE.

"Even if they did not get the machinery, they did get the plans and blueprints and specifications."

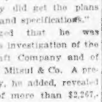
Scaife charged that he was "blocked" in his investigation of the Standard Aircraft Company and of the activities of Mitsui & Co. A preliminary inquiry, he added, revealed overpayments of more than $2,267,000 to the Standard firm.

"There was a clear war fraud case against the Standard Company, but it has never been prosecuted," Scaife added. "Its Japanese owners were represented by the law firm of former Attorney-General George W. Wickersham and that may account for it."

"Do you think the attorneys for



Sen. Thos. J. Walsh



H. F. Sinclair

Mitsui & Co., Cadwalter, Wickersham and Taft, used personal influence on the Department of Justice in behalf of their clients?" asked Wheeler.

"Yes, I certainly do."

Scaife read a letter from Wickersham to Solicitor General James M. Beck. It was addressed "Dear Jim," and asked Beck to see the Chief Justice (Taft) of the United States Supreme Court regarding the date of Mitsui's trial.

DRAWS IN TAFT'S NAME.

"I think that is highly unethical and shows the working of what I call 'the invisible government,'" said Scaife.

"But Beck didn't regard Wickersham's letter as highly confidential and personal, for he put it in the files of the Department of Justice," said Moses.

"I think it was improper."

In regard to his investigation of the Wright-Martin case, the witness said he had tried to start a Department of Justice inquiry into that subject, but had been blocked by William J. Burns.

It was his judgment, he said, that this case was one "calling for indictments." Pressed by Senator Moses, Republican, New Hampshire, he named Secretary Weeks, former Attorney-General Daugherty, Charles Hayden, chairman of the Wright-Martin board, and Guy D Goff, former Assistant Attorney-General, as those who should be indicted.

Scaife revealed that a "gentleman's agreement" was entered into by former Attorney-General Daugherty during his impeachment proceedings a year ago, to bring immediate prosecution" against the Stand and Company.

"That agreement was reached so you would not touch on that case in the impeachment proceedings?" Wheeler asked.

"Yes, and not one move has been made to prosecute either the Standard or Mitsui & Co."

Scaife also charged that representatives of Mitsui & Co. were present in the War Department and helped take the government's audit in the case.

Scaife also renewed his charges of fraud in the sale of the Bosch Magneto Company to Martin E. Kern, an alleged German alien.

"Under the law, Kern was prohibited from owning property in this country because he was a German alien," said Scaife, "yet A. Mitchell Palmer while alien custodian sold the Bosch Magneto Company to Kern. We learned later that Palmer was formerly an attorney for Kern.

"So Mr. Palmer sold Kern the Bosch Magneto Company as a former attorney to a client in violation of the law, and the present Department of Justice has taken no steps to prosecute the case?" Wheeler asked.

"That was the way it happened."

This case was prosecuted more than a year ago in New York.

BUILT TO HOUSE YOUNGSTERS

LANDLORD FORCED TO ALTER PLANS

When C. E. Bodge, landlord extraordinary, announced his intention of permitting only families with children to occupy the tenements he had erected on Milwood street, Dorchester, he leaped before he looked. There were plenty of families with children willing to move in, but each and every one asked guarantee that there would be no other children in the house. Now he has let five of the six tenements, three to childless parents. Bodge appears in circle at upper right. Directly beneath him is shown Miss Emerald Hazel Warwick and (at upper left), her five-year-old brother, Clarence. They are children of Clarence H. Warwick, Elevated conductor.

Families Near Burning Southbridge Bowling Alleys Fear Spread of Fire

Southbridge, April 2.—A score of families, fearing the spread of a roaring fire in the Globe bowling alleys in Pleasant street, moved furniture and household effects out of their homes early today, while the snowstorm raged.

The furniture was deposited in the snow-covered streets and was left unprotected, while the householders, with the sleep barely out of their eyes, crashed peacefully in for more.

The fire started in the bowling alleys, in the Globe Village section. So rapidly did it spread that firemen, arriving in answer to a general alarm, abandoned the building and battled the gale-driven flames and sparks in an endeavor to prevent spread of the fire.

High winds and snow hampered the work of firemen. The Globe Village was threatened with destruction.

Aroused by two young men who gave the alarm for the fire, the occupants of the neighborhood dressed hastily and began the task of saving their belongings. Pleasant street was clogged with snow-covered furniture.

The bowling alleys owned by Peter Gaudette were destroyed, and the total loss is expected to exceed $50,000. The cause of the fire is unknown.

STONEHAM MOTHER SEEKS THREE SONS

Neighbors of Mrs. Margaret Noonan, an aged widow of No. 198 Main street, Stoneham, have asked the American to assist in locating her three sons. Another son, who lived with her, died last Saturday, and the woman is alone and destitute. The three sons are believed to be in or about Boston. One of them has not been home for twenty-seven years. Another is a veteran of the Spanish-American War.

Mrs. Noonan is without means of support, and unless her sons return home she will have to be removed to an institution.

STRICKEN ON TROLLEY, DIES IN HOSPITAL

Stricken while riding on a trolley car on his way to work, Louis Hinckley, sixty, of No. 16 Prospect street, died a short time after he was admitted to the Somerville Hospital. Hinckley was employed in a Charlestown plant. Hospital physicians said death was due to natural causes, heart failure being the principal cause. Hinckley lived with a sister.

'Mayor' Peters Year Older Tomorrow; Send Him Card

Of the Democratic leaders in Greater Boston, none has a closer place in the affections of the rank and file of the party than Andrew James Peters.

"Mayor" Peters, as he is more familiarly known, was born in Jamaica Plain on April 3, 1872. After graduating from Harvard Law School Mr. Peters turned to politics.

Andrew J. Peters.

In 1902 he was elected to the State Legislature and two years later was selected a State Senator. He served four terms in Congress and in 1914 resigned to become Assistant Secretary of the United States Treasury in charge of customs at Boston, and in 1917 he was elected Mayor of Boston. Tomorrow is his birthday. Send him a card or letter of congratulations to his office at No. 53 State street, Boston.

THREE HELD UP BY REVERE GUNMEN

Three young men stepped out of an automobile at a well-lighted corner in Revere, pointed revolvers at three business men who had just come from a nearby garage, took $325 from the pockets of their victims and got away.

The victims of the highway robbery are David Umansky of No. 74 Campbell avenue, Revere; David Leahy, No. 181 West Selden street, Dorchester, and Charles Cristol, No. 129 Chambers street, Boston.

Umansky and his friends had just driven the former's motor-car into Barrett's Garage, 100 feet from the corner of Campbell and Centennial avenues, and had reached the corner on their way to the Umansky residence nearby, when a big touring car pulled up at the curb, three young men jumped to the sidewalk and in a flash the curtain was up and the short and thrilling drama was on.

From Umansky the collector took $175, from Leahy $125 and from Cristol $25.

BARS LET DOWN FOR CHILDLESS FAMILIES

Dorchester Landlord Admits Three to Six-Flat Tenement

Three months ago C. E. Bodge, big-hearted Quincy landlord, built a tenement house of six five-room apartments, at No. 37 Milwood street, Dorchester.

Now Bodge hasn't forgotten he was once a kid himself, so he placed a sign on the house. "Ready for occupancy January 15," it read, "Do not apply unless you have children."

The sign bespoke a big rush by people with children, Bodge thought. When more than a month had passed, though, not a family had rented the house. Then Bodge finally decided, wanted to be sure their children would be the only ones in the house. Where there are many children under one roof there is bound to be quarreling, and where the children scrap there are bound to be some parents jump in and take sides, prospective tenants informed Bodge.

Last Saturday Clarence H. Warwick, Elevated conductor, with his wife and their three children, rented the downstairs apartment. The Larson family, on the second floor, has one girl. Three other families are due to move into the house today, and even though they have no children, Bodge can at least start a children's quartet as a reward for his love for the little ones.

IRISH WOMEN OBJECT TO JURY SERVICE

Dublin, April 2.—Irish women now have the same rights and liabilities as men to serve on juries. For the most part they do not like it, and there is a bill proposing to strike off the jury lists the names of all women willing to such service. This has provoked a protest from the Irish Women's Citizen Association.

Kevin O'Higgins said the woman juror was not an outstanding success, and this provoked the retort from the Labor benches: "Is the woman voter a success?"

Mr. O'Higgins replied that he would not like to answer that question "in public."

TO HUNT BIRD WHOSE BILL BREAKS ROCK

New York, April 2.—Undaunted by the failure of one expedition to find a pink-headed duck in the wilds of Siam, a party of scientists sails from Brooklyn today to explore the valley of the Amazon in quest of a bird that breaks rock with its bill, swims and resembles a bat.

It's the houzin, says George Coudert, a Newark, N. J. moving picture photographer, who is to accompany a party of explorers for the University of Pennsylvania. Coudert explained that he has special equipment to be used in photographing the queer specimen, a good one, he says, being worth $50,000.

The theatres are located in Newport, R. I., Fall River, Waltham, Amesbury, Newburyport and Portland.

CALLS HOSPITAL CONDITIONS AT LYNN INHUMAN

Representative Daggett Denounces the Contagious and T. B. Institutions at Hearing

Rotten! Disgraceful! Inhuman and intolerable!

These were some of the adjectives used today by Representative Warren G. Daggett of Somerville, in describing conditions at the Lynn contagious and tuberculosis hospitals.

Daggett is chairman of the committee from the Legislature which inspected the institutions and which will consider bills providing for the abolition of the four city institutions in Lynn, Salem, Haverhill and Lawrence, placing the patients in a county tuberculosis district and caring for them at Middleton.

"Conditions at both Lynn institutions are disgraceful," declared Mr. Daggett.

"The buildings are unsanitary and the air is filled with offensive odors. I saw little children who are convalescing, resting on bed linen that was filthy.

"In addition, the buildings are firetraps."

Mr. Daggett declared the institution at Salem is ordinarily descent but not modern.

The proposition now before the Legislature is to have the four cities go into the county district and pay their share of the construction of a modern institution amounting to about $1,000,000.

GERMANY CELEBRATED the 109th anniversary of Bismarck's birth yesterday with loud cries for a Kaiser, and the old kind of government.

Bavaria freed Ludendorff and imposed a farcical sentence on Hitler as punishment for attempting to overthrow the Republican government and destroy the lives of many.

THOSE THAT want the Kaiser back say: "Our misery is due to democracy." One more ounce of brains would make them realize that their misery is due to the Kaiser system. Some of them apparently will have to stand another dose of Kaiserism before they are thoroughly cured.

Fortunately there is common sense, and thorough education in the masses of the German people. They may be able to save their Republic.

RUSSIA changes Petrograd—which used to be St. Petersburg—to Leningrad. Mark your letter "Leningrad," or the Russia post office won't deliver it. The idea is to honor Lenin, but it's a poor idea.

RUSSIA, under Czars or Bolshevism, should be glad to honor the power of the Russian race, exemplified in the gigantic body, powerful will and wonderful achievements of Peter the Great.

His name, given to the great city that he built on a dismal swamp in the cold North, should remain with that city. It is a poor tribute to Lenin to rob the memory of the most powerful Russian.

THE Pennsylvania railroad earned $4.81 a share, and reports a new revenue high water mark above $775,000,000 for 1923. The Pennsylvania shares have a par value of $50, which makes the earnings 9.62 per cent.

That's good news for stockholders, but it isn't all the good news.

To celebrate the joyful occasion the Pennsylvania informs travelers on the Long Island railroad, owned by the Pennsylvania, that they must pay more for traveling, more for tickets, more for commutation.

GRILL 4 HELD IN CANADIAN ROBBERY

Dead Bank Bandit's Identity Gives Clew That May Trail Gang

Montreal, April 2.—Police officials today examined four men held as suspects in the robbery of an automobile carrying $246,000 in currency belonging to the Bank of Hochelaga.

It was announced after examination of the suspects that $8,000 had been found on two of them.

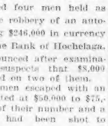
The holdup men escaped with an amount estimated at $50,000 to $75,000 after one of their number and a bank employe had been shot to death.

The police identified the dead bandit as Harry Stone, said to be an internationally known narcotic smuggler. From this identification they established clues which made them hopeful that the entire gang would be apprehended.

Good descriptions of the eight men who fled on the automobile were obtained from witnesses.

BUNKER HILL DAY DIRECTOR NAMED

Thomas F. Fitzpatrick of No. 84 Bunker Hill street, Charlestown, has been named by Mayor Curley as director of the celebration of Bunker Hill Day on June 17.



Thomas F. Fitzpatrick.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, who is assistant clerk of Charlestown court and who will be admitted to the bar on June 17, has already started plans for the celebration. In connection with the exercises the anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill was celebrated with a parade and exercises which were staged during the afternoon. This year the celebration will start in the morning and continue throughout the day, with a big parade in the morning and another in the afternoon. It marks the 149th anniversary of the battle.

They were married in August, 1923. In November, she testified, he started slapping and hitting her and heaving food into the floor. His trouble grew out of the fact that Celia, who had been married before, had a 16-year-old son living with her.

DERAILED CARS TIE UP N. H. AT THOMPSON

Providence, April 2.—Two cars on a freight train en route from Boston to Hopewell were derailed at Thompson, Ct., early today. The derelict of a wrecker called from Readville tipped over about 7:30 this morning and together with the wreck of the freight cars blocked traffic entirely on both tracks. W. E. White of Readville, engineer of the wrecker, was thrown out, but escaped with bruises. Wreckers from Central Falls and Medway hope to get the tracks cleared by midnight.

broken hearts—if hearts of collegians are breakable.

The girl, originally from Watertown, disappeared as if the earth had swallowed her. Then a day or so ago, she turned up in Boston. Immediately the police were on her trail and her arrest followed.

TREASURER A VICTIM.

It seems that the girl's activities were not confined solely to college students. Treasurer Kenney of the Massachusetts Agricultural College also appears to have fallen for the wiles and smiles of the young lady. For he, it is alleged, holds checks for $70 that the girl passed on him.

REV. J. E. WALSH SENT TO CHINA BY ROME

Ossining, N. Y., April 2.—Rev. James Edward Walsh of Cumberland, Md., has been nominated by the Congregation of Propaganda at Rome to the position of prefect apostolic in China with headquarters at Kong Moen, the superior of the American Foreign Missions at Maryknoll was notified today.

Father Walsh, who was educated at Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Md., and who served as director at the Maryknoll Preparatory School at Scranton, Pa., went to China in 1918, where soon afterward he became superior of the Maryknoll Missioners.

BLIZZARD HITS FLOOD SUFFERERS

Cumberland, Md., April 2 (I.N.S.).—Suffering in this section devastated by recent rising of the Potomac River was intense today, following a raging blizzard, which blanketed the ground with nearly a foot of snow. Relief work in the flood-stricken valley was practically brought to a standstill, and the meagre reports from the inundated towns indicated that the victims of the flood were suffering intensely from the bitter cold.

running gasoline launch was driven ashore at Hull.

Two men in the launch, driven toward the pounding surf, near which Hull policemen were waiting, scrambled into a tender and rowed away.

Alcohol valued at $5,000 was found in the craft and seized by Chief Reynolds of the Hull police.

Driving flakes, thick and wet, spatted against automobile windshield, obscuring vision.

Through this cause a couple in an automobile, unaware of an approaching train, drove across the tracks at Allen's Crossing, Quincy.

A train whistle blew. The motor stalled. George S. Craig of No. 73 Garfield street, Quincy, driver of the machine, and Miss Katherine Curley of No. 272 Newberry street, Norfolk Downs, tumbled out of the stalled car to safety only a few seconds before the locomotive crashed into it.

At about the same time, at the Willow avenue crossing of the Boston & Maine Railroad in Somerville, a car driven by E. Johnson of No. 55 Clark street, Cambridge, crashed through the lowered gates, skidded to the outbound tracks and was struck by an outbound passenger train. The machine was wrecked, but Johnson escaped with minor hurts.

POLES CRASH DOWN.

Three telephone poles were crashed to the ground with a network of wires in Sydney street, Dorchester, at Telegraph and Gates streets. South Boston, a tree blown over by the gale brought down more wires.

Wires were down at Walter and Bussey streets, West Roxbury; Perkins street, Jamaica Plain, and at Rockport street and Victory road, Dorchester.

More than 700 telephone subscribers were without service when wires between Hingham and Weymouth broke. Hull and Cohasset were without electric light for the same reason.

Passenger steamers between Boston and north coast ports remained in harbors over night.

The schooner, seven off Chatham, is believed to have been blown several hundred miles out to sea.

SHIPS HELD IN PORT.

The steamer Belfast, from the Penobscot River and bound for Boston, remained tied up at Rockland, its last port of call, before heading into the open sea for the Hub.

The Governor Dingley for Boston and the City of Gloucester also remained in port, the former at Portland, the latter at Gloucester.

In Boston harbor, the steamer Leonardo, of the Prince Line, delayed its sailing until today, while the Newfoundland liner Spes, for Halifax and St. Johns, with freight and passengers, swung at anchor all night.

The steamship Corcoral, which was to have left D. Simpson's drydock for Hampton Roads, was not taken out because of the storm.

At Springfield, Palmer and other places along the main highway between Boston and New York scores of automobiles were reported abandoned in snowdrifts, and in the western part of Massachusetts street cars were reported "lost" in the drifts.

In New York the storm crushed deep thunder, spat forked lightning and blew from the northeast at 45 knots, in striking contrast with the arrival in New York of the first Louisiana strawberries and new green peas from California.

Snow clouding the vision of a motorman brought on a collision of elevated trains in New York, in which one man was killed and thirteen taken to the hospital with broken bones and other injuries.

GROTON GIRL TELLS HOW KILLING WRECKED HER ROMANCE

TRAGEDY COMES TO ELOPERS

Man With Whom Bay State Miss Ran Away Is Slain in West Virginia

Groton, April 2.—Bertha L. Frazee, the Groton High School girl who eloped nineteen months ago with C. Herbert Eldridge, a wealthy dairyman, old enough to be her father, has come back home to live it down.

Eldridge, who left a loving wife and a bright young son of twelve and abandoned a $12,000-a-year business, to run away with a schoolgirl who had not yet begun to do her hair up, is buried in Bellevue Cemetery at Lawrence.

The man was brought low by a bullet, according to the girl, discharged accidentally, in a West Virginia coal mine.

So has ended the strange story, by some called a romance, which was brought to light on August 21, 1922, when man and girl were reported missing.

CONFESSED TO WIFE.

Except the deserted wife, who now makes her home in Ohio, no one in Groton had any advance notice of what was coming except the two most directly interested. On the day of his disappearance Eldridge, a man of 45, with the reputation of being unusually level-headed, took his wife into his confidence, declared that he could not give up the schoolgirl, and told Mrs. Eldridge they had made every arrangement to elope.

"You'll be a marked man," Mrs. Eldridge warned him. "The police will follow you all over the earth. You cannot escape."

On the following day the disappearance of the girl was reported to the police by her brother, George, since the then recent death of his father, the male head of the family.

A day or two later the Eldridge sedan was found on the outskirts of Franklin, N. H., where the elopers had abandoned it.

Then Mrs. Frazee received a postal card from Montreal, Canada, signed "Bertha," and saying no more than "all's well."

And that was all.

The Frazees swore out a warrant charging Eldridge with a serious offense.

The warrant is still in Chief Dowling's desk, never to be served.

Weeks, months, a year passed and Groton had almost forgotten Eldridge when about a week ago the newspapers contained brief dispatches from Logan, W. Va., telling of the death by violence of C. Herbert Eldridge of Massachusetts, under peculiar circumstances.

When they brought him home dead to her the young wife, not yet 18 years old, communicated with her mother and brother.

"Bert is dead," she wired, "in need of funds; want to come home."

The right answer was in her hands within three hours.

Bertha Frazee Eldridge, wearing widow's weeds, and dressed heavily in black, started on the long journey North unattended. Eldridge's body was in the baggage coach.

MEET AT CEMETERY.

Her brother was waiting for her at the gates of the Lawrence cemetery and, otherwise unattended, the body of the man who had sacrificed everything for a schoolgirl was given back to earth.

According to unconfirmed rumors, the first Mrs. Eldridge has obtained an Ohio divorce. In any event, Bertha Frazee Eldridge wears a wedding ring.

All the girl will say is that Eldridge was "very good" to her.

MORE SPEED IN SENATE ASKED BY COOLIDGE

Republican Lawmakers at Breakfast Conference at White House

Washington, April 2.—Means of speeding up legislation in the Senate were considered at a White House breakfast conference today attended by about a dozen Republican senators.

President Coolidge went over with the guests the entire situation and an endeavor was made to map out a program for the remainder of the session similar to that agreed upon last week by the executive and Republican leaders of the House.

Senators attending the conference included Lodge, the Republican leader; Curtis of Kansas, the assistant Republican leader; Borah of Idaho; Moses of New Hampshire, Wadsworth of New York, Brandegee of Connecticut, Willis of Ohio and Watson of Indiana.

26 KILLED IN FIRE PANIC IN MEXICO

Mexico City, April 2 (A.P.).—The short-circuiting of an electric wire in a motion picture theatre at Tacubaya City, a suburb of the capital, caused a fire and subsequent panic in which twenty-six persons are known to have been killed and at least fifty-six injured.

The wire, carrying high voltage, dropped from above and hung near high in the main aisle, bringing death to those touching it in the mad scramble for the exits. Many were seriously injured or trampled to death under the feet of the stampeding crowd.

MOTHER FREED IN 'DOCTOR' CHARGE

Mrs. Catherine Ameer Found Not Guilty of Practicing Without a License

Mrs. Catherine Ameer, fifty, of No. 74 Tyler street, South End, and the mother of two daughters who are both practicing physicians, was freed of the charge of practicing medicine without a license by Judge Duff in Municipal Court today.

The complaint against the woman was made by State Officer Arthur Keating. The State's testimony showed that Mrs. Ameer assisted at the home of Mrs. Lillian Hanlar at No. 70 Oak street, South End.

The daughters, Dr. Alexandria Ameer, who has been practicing medicine for three years, and her older sister, Dr. Hafina Ameer, who is known as a specialist in children's diseases, were both on the stand.

The testimony developed that Dr. Alexandria Ameer treated Mrs. Hanlar prior to the birth of the child and was at the home a few hours before the baby was born. When the family physician sent for Dr. Alexandria she was on another case. The Hanlar family insisted that the doctor's mother come, if the doctor could not.

The child was born with the mother in attendance. Her daughter, the doctor, appeared at the home a short time later and took charge.

Both girls testified their mother was capable of acting in such a case, but that there was no intention to violate the law and that the mother merely acted in an emergency and at the request of the Hanlar family. The matter was reported to the State authorities by some unknown person.

RAY REARRESTED AS FUGITIVE FROM N. Y.

George Ray rearrested as a fugitive by the Brighton police on complaint of New York authorities, after finishing a nine months' term here for breaking and entering, will be turned over to New York officers, who charge him with theft of furs. Ray had been lodging on Tremont street, in the South End, before his sentence here. He was paroled from Great Western penitentiary.

Denmark, Me., April 2. — The bodies of Irving W. Hale and Herbert W. Freeman, lumbermen, were recovered from Moose Pond. They had broken through thin ice.

COAL DROPS EXCEPT IN BOSTON

Local Dealers Claim That the Handlers' Demand for More Pay Prevents Cut Here

The increasing use of bituminous coal, oil and coke for domestic fuel is bringing down the price of anthracite all over New England, according to fuel experts in Boston, but the coal companies in this city are still holding out.

The prices of anthracite for domestic fuel in Boston continue at the figures quoted all Winter, despite the fact that they have been cut from 50 cents to $1 in nearby communities.

President Edward A. Hamlin of the Metropolitan Coal Company said today that a meeting of the directors of the company has been called for next Friday, when the matter of cutting prices in Boston will be considered.

In Lowell cuts of 50 cents to $1 were announced on Tuesday. In Providence there has been a cut of 50 cents. In New York cuts up to $1 a ton have been made. In Wakefield, Melrose and other suburban places cuts of 50 cents on all sizes of anthracite have been made.

In Boston it is said that demands for increases in pay by teamsters and hoisting operatives have been made, which will increase the cost of handling coal. The teamsters are demanding an increase of $4 a week, from a minimum of $28 to a minimum of $30 a week. The hoisters want an increase of from $42 to $48 a week, with triple time on holidays and other improved working conditions. The coal companies declare that they could right the hoisters by eliminating barges and using all-rail coal, but are disturbed by the teamsters' demands. The matter has been referred to the State Board of Arbitration.

AUTOIST SENTENCED HIS PLEA IGNORED

Municipal Court Judge Murray turned a deaf ear to the pleas for clemency made by George Harrington of No. 125 Charles street, who pleaded guilty to driving a car while intoxicated. Judge Murray gave Harrington a month in jail.

"I'm the only support of my mother and have a wife and 1 son in jail?" the young man asked.

"You ought to be thankful you are not here on a manslaughter charge," was the only judicial sympathy extended to Harrington who appealed and gave $200 bail for the grand jury.

WANT GOV. HUNT TO PROVE HIS CHARGE

Washington, April 2.—The House Irrigation Committee today voted to report its request of Chief Hoof of Arizona appear to testify in regard to the recent charges by him that Secretary Work was using his position to favor the State of Colorado in the proposed Colorado River development. The vote was 7 to 2.

209 LOTTERY TICKETS ON ARRESTED MAN

Lawrence, April 2.—John Murphy of No. 22 Arlington street, Nashua, N. H., was arrested here today on a lottery business charge. When searched at police headquarters 209 lottery tickets on the Boston and New York charities and $260 were found in his pockets.

Murphy, who said he is an insurance agent, denied knowing the nature of the lottery, and said he sold the tickets when his business was dull. He will be arraigned in district court.

4 DEAD IN GRAND RAPIDS HOTEL FIRE

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 2.—At least four persons are dead and 15 unaccounted for and a dozen more are in hospitals today, suffering burns and bruises as a result of a fire which destroyed the Livingstone Hotel here. Firemen, exhausted from their all-night work, were still laboring to quench the burning embers. Scores of other guests were rescued. It is feared more bodies are in the ruins.

BAND OF 200 WIPED OUT BY VILLISTAS

El Paso, Tex., April 2.—A force of 200 volunteers under General Jose A. Castro, Governor of Durango, has been almost annihilated in that state by a large force of Villistas, according to information received in Juarez. It is said their ammunition was too large for their rifles, and the volunteers were without protection. General Marcelo Caraveo, who recently arrived from the south, has been sent in pursuit of the Villistas.

BARE FRAUD IN IRISH ACCOUNTS

Year's Loss of $576,000 in Irregularities, Including Absconding by Army Officers

Dublin, April 2.—Patrick MacGilligan, a member of the Free State Army inquiry commission, will succeed Joseph Magrath, who recently resigned as Minister of Industry and Commerce in the Free State government. The appointment carries Cabinet rank.

Dublin, April 2.—The first annual report of the Free State comptroller and auditor-general on the appropriation accounts for the year ended March 31, 1923, contains disclosures of irregularities and losses of public moneys.

About $576,000 in the army accounts is either wholly or partly unvouched for, while other sums of $288,000 are written off as irrecoverable, or as unrecoverable balances.

Other sums written off are explained by officers absconding or joining the irregulars, while it is shown that deserters' families drew allowances and the overpayment of officers and others was widespread.

One firm supplying army stores received advances amounting to $769,000, but invoices for only $225,000 were received.

ANOTHER KILLING FOLLOWS ELECTION

Chicago, April 2.—A second killing in Cicero in twenty-four hours broke the morning quiet following the turbulent village election when one man was killed and numerous others wounded, beaten or ambushed, some of the victims being women. The dead:

Joseph Smith, a chauffeur, shot and killed in a brawl.

Frank Capone, emissary of a beer-running gang, shot by Chicago police.

Smith was killed in front of a roadhouse early today. Capone was slain by the police summoned to the village to help keep order.

REVIEW GRANTED ON NEW HAVEN ORDER

Albany, N. Y., April 2.—The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company has been granted the right to have received a portion of its terms of a Public Service Commission order directing improvements in passenger train service at New Rochelle junction yards.

The right of review, granted by Supreme Court Justice Staley, was accompanied by an order enjoining further proceedings until the commission's order, providing the review is brought up for argument in the Appellate Division at Albany at the May term.

PRUNEAU NOT GUILTY OF MURDER; INSANE

Montpelier, Vt., April 2.—George Pruneau of Barre was found not guilty of murder on the ground of insanity by a jury here today. He was charged with the killing of 12-year-old Leona Tracy in Barre last August.

Officials of the State Hospital testified that they believed Pruneau insane and the county verdict was rendered by counsel for both State and defense.

LAWRENCE SQUAD MAKES TWO RAIDS

Lawrence, April 2.—Special Officers Sweeney and O'Connor raided the Junior Social Pastime Club, at No. 344 Park street, and arrested Alexander McCann on a charge of keeping liquor illegally.

A second raid, on a beer-for-sale saloon at No. 92 Springfield street, led to the arrest of Jacob Pinnock, the owner, and William Kole.

20 DIED AS BRIDGE FALLS IN SEVILLE

Madrid, April 2.—At least twenty persons were drowned in the collapse of a bridge over the Guadalquivir River near the village of Alcala, Seville, according to details of the accident received today. Many spectators gathered on the bridge to watch the flood waters which were thrown into the river when six arches suddenly collapsed.

BILLIARD CHAMPION FILES COUNTER SUIT

Philadelphia, April 2. — Ralph Greenleaf, national pocket billiard champion, has filed a counter suit for divorce in a local court, it became known today. He charges desertion and indignities. His wife, Mrs. Beatrice Greenleaf, filed suit for separation in New York last Saturday.

SKILLEN, DARTMOUTH STAR, DIES IN CHICAGO

Chicago, April 2.—Percy Skillen, former star Dartmouth College athlete, is dead at his home here after an illness of about two months. Skillen, who was a southpaw pitcher at college, was one of the most remarkable amateurs in the country. He was about forty years old.

HARRIET CHISHOLM

A fire of mysterious origin destroyed a two and one-half story unoccupied dwelling house at Nos. 36-38 Park street, Dorchester, and threatened to ignite nearby houses.

The loss was estimated at $2,500. The property is owned by Daniel McLaughlin of No. 13 Tremont street.

Three families occupying No. 40 Park street, next door to the burning building, fled out into the storm fearing that their house would catch fire.

Harriet Chisholm, twenty years old, was asleep in her room at No. 40 when smoke aroused her. She telephoned for the firemen.

TAX RAISE DENOUNCED BY MELLON

"Economical Suicide," He Says, to Increase the Estate Levies

Washington, April 2.—The increase in the estate tax rates made in the revenue bill by the House was denounced today by Secretary Mellon before the Senate Finance Committee as "economic suicide."

"The estate tax is a levy on capital primarily and carried to an excess differs in no way from the revolutionists of Russia," Mr. Mellon said. He argued this form of taxation should be left principally to the States.

Federal income taxes for 1924 are expected to exceed the $1,923,000,000 estimated by treasury experts, it became known today when the first accurate returns for the March payments became available.

The March payments totaled $350,000,000, or $17,000,000 more than March, 1923, and in addition $76,000,000 in back taxes were collected.

The public debt was decreased by $158,000,000 in March.

FIND JOBS FOR PORTO RICAN STOWAWAYS

Warm Clothing, Too, for Shivering Youths Who Landed in Seersucker Suits

Antonio Roman, Jose M. Guillon and Angel G. Valentino, Porto Rican boys who arrived in Boston ten days ago in seersucker suits as stoways on the steamer Ozama, and who walked the streets for three days in their flimsy raiment trying to get a ship back to Ponce, are to remain here.

The Volunteers of America have furnished them with suitable clothing and secured them jobs in a string of popular one-arm lunch rooms, where they are acting as buss boys and scullery help.

"They cannot speak English," said the agent of the Volunteers to the manager of the lunch rooms.

"All the better," said the manager. "I hope they never learn."

Summer Frock Insurance

When you put time and money into a pretty new dress you do NOT want either to be wasted.

Do you know of any store in Boston that will unqualifiedly guarantee a dress made from the colored linens that it sells—that will replace the full value (including cost of both material and labor) if the garment either fades or shrinks? This is the offer we are now making and have made for some months past with regard to our colored linens.

Get enough of Wild Rose, Topaz, Bluebird or any of the other lovely shades included in this guarantee to make yourself a dress as a test. If it fades or shrinks, you have made it at our expense instead of your own. If you prove that we are right about it, and solve the Summer wash dress problem for your family, tell your friends the story. That's only fair—if we make good on our promise. It has been no easy matter to provide a linen that will not fade; that has a smooth surface because it is made from a special quality of long staple flax; and that cannot shrink because it has already been shrunk ten inches in width.

As the leading linen specialists in Boston we felt that it was especially our duty this season (when we knew that colored linens would be the most fashionable wash material) to provide absolutely the best that could be made. We leave you to judge if we have done it.

Harcourt Amory, Jr., Returns From Bermuda Sojourn, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

BACK from their several weeks' sojourn in Bermuda are Mr. and Mrs. Harcourt Amory, Jr. They are returning this week to their year-round home on the North Shore, after spending a few days at the Beacon street home of Mr. Amory's parents, after arriving in Boston.

It was somewhat over a year ago that Miss Sue Wood became the bride of Harcourt Amory, Jr., Harvard '16. After their wedding journey to foreign shores, the young people established their Lares and Penates down Hamilton-Wenham way, which is coming very much into vogue among the younger-married contingent.

MRS. JOHN E. BOIT (Marion Sprague), who is one of society's most talented songsters, will lend considerable charm to the Dresden China dance, one of the prettiest bits in the much-heralded "Wake Up." Also, Mrs. Boit will be one of the "Barker Singers" of the show.

As tomorrow afternoon approaches, members of the fashionable world are anticipating more keenly every minute the rise of the curtain upon "Wake Up." A record throng will crowd the Boston Opera House for this premier performance of the Vincent Club play, which will be repeated on Friday evening as well as Saturday afternoon and evening.

MRS. PERCY MORGAN is of the group coming on from New York for the once-postponed debate taking place today between the Junior Leagues of Boston and Gotham.

An interested audience is assured for the oratorical fray, which will be held at the League's rooms of Boylston street. The question at hand is whether or no the Puritan Influence is a Detriment to Development.

Mrs. Thomas Morse (Eleanor Whitney) and Miss Ruth Taylor take the affirmative for Boston, while Miss Mary Opdycke and Mrs. Harrison Tweed of Manhattan speak for the negative.

Mrs. Morgan, together with Mrs. Charles Greely Loring of Boston and Mrs. George Baker of Cambridge have been selected as judges for the occasion.

Mrs. Leroy King, as chairman of the New York debaters, is also coming on for the event. During their stay here a number of functions have been planned in honor of the visiting "leaguers," and they have been invited to "take in" the Vincent show.

AWAY WITH THE MOTH!

CRYSTALS to protect your clothes from moths, come in a 10-ounce box, 50 cents. It's not the moth, but the eggs the moth lays which eat away woolens and furs. Scatter these crystals in the package where your winter things are, and the moth won't want to lay eggs there.

FIRST have your winter clothing cleaned. Cleaning preserves dresses, suits, flannels and furs. Wrap them carefully and tightly in an abundance of newspapers. Before doing so, sprinkle naphthalene and cedar flakes among the folds. 25 cents a box.

HANG a square anti-moth container in your closet. Metal, sides perforated. Two thick discs of deadly destroyer in it. Lasts a year. Even when you leave the door open, no moth will enter. It permeates the air, yet leaves no odor a minute after the clothes are taken out. $2.00. Just hang it on a hook. Get re-fills next year.

FOR WINTER overcoats and heavy wraps, use a big square-topped anti-moth bag. $1.50. Room for a lot. Easy to use. Doesn't tear. Dust-proof and damp-proof.

SIMILAR ones, with flat top, are 69 cents. 2 little hooks fastened inside for hangers. Protects your dresses. 26x4x55 inches.

WEAR a serge dress once in awhile, on cool summer days. You can be sure it won't be moth-eaten, if you keep it in one of these bags. Size 27x4x55 inches is 85 cents. Saves sending to storage. Short fur coats can be put in it, too.

PURE gum camphor is 10 cents a cake. Moths hate it. Put some in a drawer with woolen golf hose.

SPRAY moth-poison on the stair carpet. Or your winter skirt. Leaves no stain, nor odor. You buy the spray, and new bottles of liquid as you need them. Easy to use.

IN A STUFFY, smoky room sprinkle purifying crystals, $1.00 a tall can. Lasts a long time. Revivifies stale air. Leaves no odor. Evaporates rapidly. Larger size, $2.00.

COLD STORAGE is a good place for furs. We can tell you of several places where furs may be stored and cleaned. May be obtained in the fall, at one day's notice.

Save your time for spring housecleaning. Let me help you to shop. I can save you miles of walking, looking for dresses, hats, underwear, household helps, etc. Address me care Boston American, 80 Summer St., Boston. Send loose stamp. DO NOT send envelope.

SHOW FOLK PUT OUT ON ICY STREETS

Guests and Pets Tossed Into Storm as New York Hotel Is Closed

New York, April 2.—In a blinding snowstorm, with the north wind howling and without benefit of clergy, music or advance notice, seventy persons, including many theatrical folk, were put out of the Hotel Pontchartrain and into an unusually cruel world.

They stood shivering on the slushy sidewalk in front of No. 308 West Fifty-eighth street, trying to comfort thirty-four toy dogs, one parrot, three canaries, many bedraggled cats and each other, at the same time demanding to know what it was all about.

PAYING GUESTS.

The guests were all paying members and they couldn't understand the cruel jest, which was exactly seventy times worse than the scene in "Way Down East," where Lillian Gish is ordered out into the storm.

Trunks were piled higher than at the dormitories of Yale on registration day.

Little intimate belongings not intended for the public view were exposed to unfeeling eyes until the snow covered them over.

"What's the row?" demanded one actor with a bass voice oozing above the collar of his pajamas as he poked his head into the door crack when a knock wakened him from an early morning sleep at 11 o'clock.

"House in the hands of a city marshal," came the reply; "everybody's gotta get out."

The roar that greeted this announcement echoed down the corridors and awakened all the talent, male and female. Those not so talented, but merely sojourners in Gotham, were already awake and most of them had got the idea the marshal tried to convey; that this particular hotel had quit cold and so far as he and the law were concerned, there wasn't any Hotel Pontchartrain any more.

PROPRIETOR GONE.

"This is a rotten outrage," declared a voice.

"I want my money back!" shouted another.

"Shoot the whole roll," squawked the parrot.

It occurred to somebody to look up the proprietor, Adolf Beckmann, who had collected from many of the patrons two weeks' advance rent. He had walked out into the unknown.

Laughter in Theatre It Not a Crime, Judge Rules

New York, April 2.—Laughing uproariously in a theatre is no crime. This was decided in court when a magistrate dismissed charges of disorderly conduct against Florence Marks, seventeen, and Consuelo Freund, also seventeen. They were arrested in Keith's 81st Street Theatre. Denouncing the action of Assistant Manager Hawkins in causing the arrests, the court said:

"Things are coming to a pretty pass when people are arrested for laughing. People pay their money to go into a theatre to be entertained and amused and expect to laugh when they hear something funny. The arrest of these girls is an outrage."

HOUSE TO AMEND M'NARY EXPORT BILL

Washington, April 2.—Chairman Marvin of the tariff commission, appearing today before the House ways and means committee, declared the McNary-Haugen agricultural export bill, as introduced, would open up so wide a field of government supervision and control that it would be "exceedingly" difficult to administer.

Mr. Marvin said he had been informed, however, that the House agriculture committee proposed to amend the measure to limit its scope and eliminate some objectionable features.

KLAN WINNER IN TULSA ELECTION

Tulsa, Okla., April 2.—The Democratic city administration of Tulsa, backed by the Ku Klux Klan, was re-elected over the Republican and anti-klan ticket.

Final returns gave Major Herman Newblock a margin of 4,543 over John R. Badley.

The election was the first test of klan and anti-klan strength since martial law was invoked here last year by former Governor Walton to end incidents which he attributed to the klan.

Cod Liver Oil Now In Tasteless Tablets

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets

Greatest Flesh Builder

No more will weak, thin, unfortunate children cry in protest when the nasty, fishy-tasting, horrible-smelling cod liver oil is brought out.

Medical science progresses rapidly and now you can get at your druggist's real, genuine cod liver oil in sugar-coated tablets that young and old can take with ease and pleasure.

Even the run-down and skinny grown-ups, who ought to take cod liver oil, because it really is the greatest vitamine food and builder of healthy flesh in the world, will feel extremely joyful when they read this welcome news.

Of course, doctors have been prescribing cod liver oil in tablets under another name for several years, but it is only of late that one can walk into a drug store and get a box of these flesh-producing tablets just as easy as a bottle of magnesia.

Thin, run-down, anaemic men, women and children who need to grow strong and take on flesh are advised to get a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, and if you don't gain 5 pounds in 30 days just get your money back.

One woman gained fifteen pounds in five weeks, according to her own doctor—another ten pounds in three weeks. A very delicate child, aged nine, twelve pounds in seven months, and now plays with other children and has a good appetite.

Just ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets. Druggists or any good druggist will tell you that they are wonderful flesh and health builders. Only sixty cents for 60 tablets.

'WILLING SLAVE' ON FARM FOR 22 YEARS

Maine Man Worked Without Pay and Lived on Scraps From Farmer's Table

Somersworth, N. H., April 2—An almost unbelievable case of apparently willing slavery has been brought to light in the Maine town of Berwick, across the river from this city, in the discovery that for 22 years Stephen Drinkwine has done the work of a "hired hand" on the farm of one Wilbur W. Goodrich virtually without pay.

According to Goodrich, the hired man worked for "his keep."

His "keep," according to town and York County officials, consisted in large part of scraps from the Goodrich table.

He slept in an outbuilding on straw and old rags, the officials say, with ten or a dozen sheep occupying the next room.

He was unwilling to discuss his case with representatives of the law because, he said, "Wilbur wouldn't like me to."

Discovery that a human being was living in New England under such conditions as are alleged was made by Deputy Sheriff Frank A. Coffin, Selectmen George M. Ferguson and Charles Goodwin and Constable Folsom.

They found Drinkwine, they say, dressed in patched overalls, a ragged coat and a thin cap. He wore no underwear. There were no socks on his feet, which were encased in leaky rubbers and wrapped in burlap bagging.

After an interval of a few days, Sheriff Coffin and Constable Folsom paid Drinkwine a second visit. They were pleasantly surprised by the change in his appearance. Somebody had treated him to a haircut. He was somewhat better dressed. No boy with a pair of new boots was ever more proud than "Steve" Drinkwine of his new underwear.

"If this man has been wronged," Goodrich said, "I don't know it, and he has never uttered a word of complaint.

"Steve first came to this farm some twenty-two years ago, worked about a year, went away, and then came back again and asked if he couldn't stay. According to his own story there wasn't any other place that would harbor him."

The "slavery" of "Steve" Drinkwine, the man who worked twenty-two years without pay, according to county officials, will be brought to the attention of the May term of the grand jury for York County.

ELECT ROOSEVELT G. O. P. DELEGATE

New York, April 2.—Theodore Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, was elected as a delegate to the Republican national convention in the State primaries. He and Robert S. Peterson, organization candidates, were elected in a Long Island district, defeating Mrs. Ruth Litt, independent.

In Westchester Count Augustus Thomas, playwright, was defeated by Oscar Leroy Warren, county Democratic leader, as delegate to the Democratic convention. It was charged Thomas' candidacy was a Tammany Hall move to gain control of the county machine.

LIBERAL DOSES OF RADIO WELCOME

IN FAULKNER HOSPITAL

Bedtime story prescriptions are eagerly sought by the kiddies at Faulkner Hospital. Nurse Josephine Casazza is listening in with one of her patients.

FEES ARE LOW AT FAULKNER HOSPITAL

Jamaica Plain Institution Has Served Public Well for 20 Years

This is the thirty-third of a series of articles which is a sequel to this newspaper's investigation of medical quackery in Greater Boston.

If you are not acquainted with reputable physicians and wish to make sure of obtaining expert advice and fair dealing, the series will show you how to avoid quacks by patronizing Boston's health centres, the best in the country.

Twenty years of service to the public, free beds and a low ward rate, with a medical staff recognized by the American College of Surgeons, the Faulkner Hospital in Jamaica Plain has been run as a public institution with no thought of private gain.

Knowing that their records would be investigated beforehand, quack medical practitioners have never applied for staff service here.

To residents of West Roxbury, Jamaica Plain and Roslindale the ward fee is only $14 a week. To persons outside of these districts, $21 a week is charged, as the founder, Dr. Faulkner stipulated this provision in his will. He also provided that a certain number of free beds or worthy poor be maintained.

The hospital contains seventy-five beds.

There is a staff of 50 trained nurses, and a large nurses' training school. A large corps of house and consulting doctors are attached to the hospital, as well as a courtesy staff of 100.

Maternity work is made a specialty. Ward rates in the maternity department are $28 a week, and private rooms range in price from $40 to $85. In all other departments, private rooms may be had for from $35 to $85.

If a patient's finances do not permit the full or even part payment of the specified charge, they receive the same care and food as do the full pay patients.

This institution is always crowded and a new home for nurses is needed, which would release the present nurse's home as a medical ward for patients.

A drive for this purpose has been started, and it is hoped that $250,000 will be realized. This is the first appeal ever made to the public, and no amount is too small to help.

Located on an eminence, surrounded by groves of pine trees, and with a vista of the Blue Hill range in the distance, the hospital is an ideal spot for the sick.

Miss Frances C. Ladd, R. N., is superintendent.

Vet's Training for Farm Work Over, Who Has Job?

Spring is at hand and the busy season on the farm will soon be on.

Here is an excellent opportunity for a farmer to secure an assistant and also give employment of a rehabilitated war veteran.

This veteran, who is married and has three children, lives in Lexington. He has had two years' training in scientific agriculture at the Massachusetts Agricultural School and should make a valuable assistant to any progressive farmer. He can also drive any kind of automobile.

CAR INSPECTION APPRECIATED BY BUYERS

"Most Helpful Service Ever Given by Newspaper," Says One

"The most helpful service ever given by a newspaper."

This is the buyers' characterization of the Boston American's "Inspected-Insured" used car service, a service that is making friends daily.

Many used cars are practically as good as new cars. For some purposes a used car is better than a new car. But the rub comes when the man who wants to own a used car sets out to buy one.

CARRY NO GUARANTEE.

New cars are in perfect condition supposedly. It is a rare new car that goes wrong. If it does go wrong, the guarantee takes care of the blemish and the expense.

But with a used car there is no such guarantee. If a used car goes bad, the owner must pay the bills. The used car usually is sold "As Is," which means the buyer takes it at face value with no "ifs" or "buts."

The man who does not know automobiles has to pick blindly, trusting to luck to get a good one. That is, until now he has had to pick blindly. The Boston American "Inspected-Insured" service has done away with this form of blind selection.

INSURED AGAINST THEFT.

Under this service skilled mechanics, employed by the American, inspect used cars mechanically. They note their findings on a blue certificate. This blue certificate is pasted on the windshield of the car. A glance at the certificate—and the prospective buyer learns just what the car's mechanical condition is.

The "Inspected-Insured" service also insures the inspected car to the buyer against fire and theft for a limited time.

NEW TAXICABS TO INVADE BOSTON

Premier Company Plans to Launch a Fleet of 50 Cars Here

The Premier Taxicab Company is considering setting loose in Boston a fleet of fifty cars.

Although no definite locations have been established by the promoters of the enterprise, a conference has been held with Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson, in regard to the laws relative to the operation of such a business.

WITH UP-TO-DATE CARS

According to Wilson, the company intends to invade the city with modern up-to-date taxi cabs. No application has as yet been filed with him, the promoters desiring to file with the State authorities first.

Assistant corporation counsel Joseph Lyons has been approached with an offer to serve as counsel for the new company, and has the proposition under consideration.

Just where the new company expects to locate its stands and headquarters is somewhat of a mystery. With the number of taxicabs already in operation, most every available space has been gobbled up.

MUST NAME LOCATIONS.

The company will be obliged, however, when it files its application with Police Commissioner Wilson to name its stands. The managers of the venture have stated that they do not intend to do a so-called "Skinner" business. They may be allowed to pick up a "fare" anywhere within the city limits, outside of their local stands.

The new company has the backing of Messrs. Young and Higgins, who have taxicab interests in New York City and Indianapolis at present.

40,000 MINERS IDLE AFTER WAGE CONFAB

Kansas City, April 2.—Forty thousand coal miners in Missouri, Oklahoma, Kansas and Arkansas are idle today as a result of the failure of representatives of the Southwestern Interstate Operators' Association to reach an agreement on a new wage scale before their conference here ended. The operators demand a lower wage scale, while the miners asked a three-year contract which caused a deadlock in the conference shortly after it began. Without a new contract the miners, under union constitution, are prohibited from continuing work.

LUDENDORFF WILL KEEP UP ACTIVITIES

Munich, April 2 (U.N.S.)—General Erich Ludendorff, acquitted of the charge of high treason, will continue his Nationalist activities, he declared today.

"I consider the verdict a shame," said Ludendorff. "It is a slap in the face of the German nation since it came upon Bismarck's birthday. My work will continue along the same lines as heretofore. That is my determined purpose which I announce to all the world.

In these three decades of study he has covered practically every agricultural subject given by the State College distance method.

AUTOIST FACES COURT AFTER WILD CHASE

Dorchester Man Is Accused of Driving Car While Drunk; Companions Released

James J. O'Neil twenty-two of No. 62 East street, Dorchester, was before Judge Connolly in Brighton Court today, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He pleaded not guilty and was held until April 5 for a hearing.

Highway Inspector Everieth Wallace of Lynn rounded up O'Neil and his party after an exciting motor sprint through Allston and Brighton after O'Neil had twice grazed his car in a mad zigzag race, according to Inspector Wallace.

Four young men in O'Neil's car were released. They claimed they had started for New York. They were headed the wrong way when their junket ended.

HELEN WILLS EAGER TO TEST SKILL WITH MLLE. LENGLEN

COAST GIRL FOR EARLY GETAWAY

Helen Wills

Berkeley, Cal., April 2.—Helen Wills, America's eighteen-year-old champion woman tennis player, has defied Suzanne Lenglen, world's title holder.

The sturdy little California miss has boldly announced she's sailing for Europe May 14, and she's determined to smash balls at the temperamental French woman in a title match.

Miss Wills, a student at the University of California, showed a square chin when she made her plans to chase the shifty Suzanne to her lair in an attempt to wrest from her the premier tennis honor for women.

"Original plans of the United States Lawn Tennis Association set June 7 as the date of sailing for the women's team for the Olympic Games in Paris and other European contests, but I am going to leave in May," said the youthful American champion. "I want a few extra days to get accustomed to playing on a foreign strand."

The American players, providing they sailed June 7, would have only a few days to get in shape for the international tournament at Wimbledon, England, set for June 21. June 23 the championship events are scheduled at Wimbledon, and July 13 is the date of the Olympic matches in Paris.

Miss Wills expects to meet Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen this Summer. That is her great, consuming ambition. If the two stars do not clash at Wimbledon or in Paris a special match for the world title may be arranged.

Mlle. Lenglen

George Wightman, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, has approved the early sailing date planned by Miss Wills.

Abroad Miss Wills will play with Eleanor Goss, Lillian Scharman and Mrs. George Wightman, other members of the American team. Mrs. Molla Mallory is ineligible for the Olympic contest, but she will play in the international matches, and another player is yet to be selected for the Paris games.

Miss Wills' play has done considerable playing since the championship matches of last year, is said to be at the top of her form. Her back court work has improved, and her net work, which has not been of the quality shown by the great Lenglen, is reported much improved this season.

ROBINSON SAYS DELANEY HAS GLASS JAW

George Robinson, rugged Cambridge negro, says that Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, who recently knocked out Paul Berlenbach in four rounds has a glass jaw. Robinson asserts he will prove his argument when he clashes with Delaney in a ten round bout at the Suffolk A. A.'s show in Mechanics Building a week from Thursday night.

George Robinson

"The records show that Angie Ratner, never rated as a hard thumper, knocked out Delaney in 1922," said Robinson. "I'll admit that Delaney later evened the score by defeating Ratner in New York. The last remains, though, that when Delaney was punched hard enough on the chin he faded out of the picture.

"The reason why Paul Berlenbach consented to meet Delaney was because the latter was known to have a weak jaw. Berlenbach's figuring almost came through in the second round when Delaney's knees sagged after a heavy right hand sock went over to the jaw.

"I punch sharp and true to the jaw. Ask Johnny Wilson. He knows. I dropped the former middleweight champion to the canvas three times in our tussle in Montreal and once in our frolic at the Arena. I also tipped Hambone Kelly with a right to the jaw.

"This is the plan of attack which will enable me to win over Delaney. I will keep shooting away at his jaw and sooner or later I shall find the weak spot and over he'll go.

"As Jack Dempsey says: 'They all hear the birdies chirp when hit hard enough and on the right spot.'

"As for myself, glance at my record and then decide for yourself if Delaney even has an outside chance of crashing over his famous knockout."

Delaney continued his work of destruction in the ring when he knocked out Leo Leonard in three rounds at Bridgeport.

Three of Greatest Jumpers Will Compete

Des Moines, Ia., April 2.—Announcement was made today that three of the greatest jumpers in the country would compete in the Drake relays, April 25 and 26. L. T. Brown, former Dartmouth star and longtime collegiate indoor record of six feet five inches, now a student at the Colorado School of Mines, and Harold Osborne, former University of Illinois jumper and holder of the world's indoor record of six feet six inches, will compete in a special event in an effort to crack the world's record of six feet 7½ inches.

HAGEN RETAINS HIS GOLF TITLE

Pinehurst, N. C., April 2.—Walter Hagen came home again first in another major golf tournament, adding this year's North and South championship to his already overwhelming list of victories in open competition with the best in the world.

Walter Hagen

Hagen set a new low mark for this event when he won today, with rounds of 68-68-74-73—283. This total was six shots better than he made last year when he led the field home with a total of 289. To take six strokes off his previous record and to win for the second consecutive year demonstrates that Hagen is the genius of competitive golf.

Hagen's victory today was scored over the greatest field of professional golfers who ever gathered beyond the limits of a national championship. He had competition. Many other great golfers were at his heels most of the time.

When he slipped a few strokes in the round, others were there to take advantage and crowd closer to him. They threatened his position as leader. But in the final round Hagen stood fast and they simply could not catch him.

He finished in style, like the champion that he is. At the short sixteen his tee shot was but a few feet from the pin and his second to the long eighteenth left him by a three foot putt. He missed this putt for a birdie three, but as he tapped in his ball for a four, Jock Hutchinson, his partner today, stepped up and congratulated him on his superior playing.

SOCCER VICTORS GREETED BY THOUSANDS

Fall River, April 2. — Captain Harold Britan and his men, members of the Fall River Football Club, champions of the United States, were received like conquering heroes upon their arrival from St. Louis, where on Sunday they captured the national championship when they defeated the Vesper Buicks.

A snowstorm began a short time before the arrival of the train from Providence, but notwithstanding this fact the streets were choked with men, women and children and the celebration was one of the biggest and noisiest in the history of Fall River.

The members of the team left New York on an early afternoon train, and when the train arrived at Kingston, R. I., Mayor Edmond P. Talbot boarded it accompanied by members of his party. Arriving in Providence, Mayor Talbot entertained the players at dinner, and then the last lap of the triumphant journey took place.

Upon a rival Manager Sam Mark was handed the following telegram from Governor Channing H. Cox:

"Sam Mark, Fall River:— May I take this opportunity of extending to you and the members of the Fall River football team my congratulations on the great victory of your team which has brought to Massachusetts the American soccer title.

"It was a splendid achievement in the field of athletics and brings to the good city of Fall River and to Massachusetts additional prestige.

"Very truly yours,

"CHANNING H. COX,"

"Governor Commonwealth of Massachusetts."

Hours before the arrival of the train, the trainshed was packed with humanity. Chief of Police Martin Feeney was in charge of police arrangements. One of the largest parades ever held in this city took place. The members of the team, accompanied by Mayor Talbot, headed the line. The local companies of the National Guard, Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants' Association and thousands of fans escorted the victorious players through the principal streets while the center of the city was done with red fire.

When the parade ended at City Hall one of the biggest demonstrations ever held in Fall River took place. Fully ten thousand persons congregated in the square when Mayor Talbot officially tendered the greeting of the city to the members of the club.

Today is the day that Boston American "Inspected-Insured" used cars are listed in the classified advertising columns. Look for the star beside the car.

Golden Eagle New B. C. Trophy

A stuffed golden eagle now adorns the trophy room of the athletic department at Boston College. The bird, which was captured in New Mexico a few weeks ago, is claimed to be one of the finest specimens seen in that locality for years.

The representation of the fighting Boston College spirit, which came into vogue four years ago when the college swooped down like an eagle upon the Yale Bull-dog, will take the place of the live eagle which was in the college's hands last fall. No trace has ever been seen of the latter since it broke loose the day before the Marquette defeat.

DILBOY POST HOLDS BOUTS NEXT WEEK

The next regular monthly amateur tournament of George Dilboy Post, V. F. W., will be staged in K. of C. Hall, Highland avenue, Somerville, Thursday evening, April 10. The committee is working hard to make this show the banner one of the season and with this in view they are after the best boys in each of the following classes, in which there will be open competition, viz: 112, 126, 136, 147 and heavyweight.

Entries for this tournament will close Tuesday, April 8, and should be forwarded to Dilboy Post, V. F. W., Room 3, K. of C. Building Somerville, Mass.

PITTSFIELD FIVE WINS OVER ROCK SPRINGS

Chicago, April 2.—Pittsfield, Mass., today defeated Rock Springs, Wyo., 21 to 12, in a loose but rough game.

Seventeen personal fouls were committed, and one Rock Springs player, Hensen, left guard, was ruled out of th game on fouls.

Pittsfield missed nine out of sixteen free throws and Rock Springs missed seven out of ten. Capta Danny Buski, left forward for Pittsfield, was the star of the game with five field goals and three free throws.

LEWIS DOWNS LONDOS IN TITLE MAT BOUT

St. Louis, April 2.—Ed Lewis heavyweight wrestling champion, retained his title tonight by winning two out of three falls in a bout with Jim Londos, Greek, here. Londos was knocked unconscious in the third fall and was carried from the ring.

RED SOX TACKLE FT. WORTH IN FINAL

By FRED C. LANE.

Fort Worth, Texas, April 2—Only one southpaw will be carried on the Red Sox hurling staff this season, and if the opening contest with the Fort Worth team is any criterion, this portsider will prove troublesome to many of the American League batters.

Val Picinich

Oscar "Lefty" Fuhr, last season with the Mobile Club in the Southern League, shut the Fort Worth team out in the first contest by an 8 to 0 score.

Not only did big Oscar shut them out, but he held them down to two hits. The first of these were made in the eighth inning and one again in the ninth. Not a man reached first base until the sixth, when Johns, local hurler, drew a walk after being in the hole for two and nothing.

The second game of the barnstorming trip was played today at Panther Park when the Red Sox tackled the Ft. Worth team in the final of the two-game series. There was some doubt in Manager Fohl's mind at game time just who would take slab.

Howard Ehmke had requested Manager Fohl for the opportunity to hurl against Jake Atz's Cats. The big fellow has fully recovered from his ailing ankle and feels fit to go the distance.

Val Picinich, it would appear, will do the brunt of the catching during the trip. Steve O'Neill will be out for a day or two or probably more with a damaged thumb.

It looked very much as though the first six hits off of the second son was to be chalked up but a screeching single to centre by Phelps spelled the chance. Calvo doubled in the ninth, but never advanced.

The Red Sox gave Fuhr wonderful support. Every man was on his toes striving to give the youngster the big chance. This perhaps accounts for the brilliant work in the field.

Bob Veach made a shoe string catch in the seventh inning that cut off a double. Ralph McMillan snared a line drive over third that nearly knocked him to the ground. This was followed by a remarkable one hand stab by Dudley Lee.

The combined efforts of the club reminded one of the teams that represented Boston back in 1915. Bill Wamby had a big day at bat and in the field. In his five trips to the platter he hit safely three times in five chances and was mixed up in six plays.

A used car may look good, both inside and outside. The proof, however, of its worth is the mechanical condition. The blue certificate tells you this.

Firpo Getting Down Fine for Battle With Al Reich

Buenos Aires, April 2.—Luis Firpo, South American heavyweight champion, has reduced his weight to 98⅛ kilograms (about 217 pounds) by 10 days of intensive training in preparation for his fight with Al Reich next Saturday which he has decided will be his last appearance in the ring. Firpo expects to weigh an even ninety-eight kilograms on day of the fight. He is working harder than at any time since his return from the United States.

BOWIE RACE MEET AGAIN CALLED OFF

Bowie, Md., April 2.—Because it was impossible to clear the track of the heavy fall of snow, the opening of the race meet was again postponed today.

The weather was much improved today, and the sun was melting the snow rapidly. Indications are that the meet will start tomorrow. The original program, carded for the opening day yesterday, which also was postponed because of the snowfall, will stand for tomorrow.

The Boston American "Inspected-Insured" used car service is distinctly a service. There is no charge either to the buyer or to the dealer.

DEGNON IS MANAGER OF MICKEY WALKER

New York, April 2.—Announcement was made today that Joe Degnon, identified with boxing in New Jersey for some years, has become manager of Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion. The post was made vacant by the death of Walker's former manager, Jack Bulger, last week.

Don't Neglect a Cold

Mothers, don't let colds get under way; at the first cough or sniffle rub Musterole on the throat and chest.

Musterole is a pure, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. It draws out congestion, relieves soreness, does all the work of the good old-fashioned mustard plaster in a gentler way, without the blister.

Keep a jar handy for all emergencies; it may prevent pneumonia in your home.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

The Meiji University baseball team is planning a trip to America for a Spring baseball series. One of the teams that the Japs will meet is Columbia on June 7 at New York.

LOWERY SCORES TWO KNOCKDOWNS AND DEFEATS SIEGAL

NATE ALL BUT OUT IN 9TH

By JACK CONWAY

Bob Lowery, a stout-hearted Scotchman, fighting in preliminaries two weeks ago, gained ring fame in three minutes when he crushed the fighting spirit of Nate Siegal in the ninth round of their ten-round battle at the Armory A. A.'s show at the Grand Opera House. In this session, Lowery scored two knockdowns. The first one sent Siegal to the canvas for the count of two in a neutral corner, the second drove Nate through the ropes. Referee Jerry Moore reached the count of seven before Siegal resumed battling.

As Lowery continued his relentless, furious attack, Siegal was beaten back and for a time it appeared as if he would be knocked out for the first time in a New England ring.

SIEGAL'S FIGHTING HEART CARRIED HIM THROUGH.

Then that mighty fighting spirit of Siegal's which caused him to risk his all in the Great Adventure overseas and which later enabled him to win the New England welterweight championship from Young Kloby forged to the front.

The mere physical parts of Siegal's fighting machine stopped, refused to function. He sagged forward, his arms dropped to his sides, his legs were unsteady and weak.

Lowery lunged forward intent upon scoring a knockout. Then that something which makes men great fighters, national heroes in a crisis, martyrs for a great cause rushed through Nate's veins, pumped new blood into his heart, gave new strength to his legs, enabled him to once more lift up his hands, caused his eyes to blaze forth with that same wonderful light they exhibited as the zero hour was reached over there and gallant hearted youths plunged over the top of muddy trenches determined to win and, if necessary, prepared to die.

Lowery saw the flash of light in his opponent's eyes. He hesitated a second. Then a resounding right hand smash bounced off his jaw. It was a wild, desperate punch. But it answered its purpose. It stopped Lowery for the time being. The Scotchman had lost his chance for a knockout.

SIEGAL WEAK IN LAST ROUND, BUT STILL GAME.

Siegal was mighty weak in the tenth frame. He was battered all around the ring. But at no time was he in the perilous position he was in after Lowery had counted with his two knockdowns in the ninth chapter.

Siegal blew wide open, as the boys in the gallery say, after it appeared as if he had the tussle won.

Siegal was leading by a comfortable margin at the end of the seventh session. He had carried every round up to this point with the exception of the fourth. Lowery had the margin in this chapter.

The tide of battle changed in the eighth session. Lowery drove to close quarters and scored heavily to the body. Siegal was also beginning to tire which made Lowery's socks all the more effective. The Revere man tried to fight back, but he appeared spent. The result was Lowery piled up points at will.

Followed the ninth round with its two sensational knockdowns and the tenth with Siegal gallantly battling to go the distance.

Perhaps Siegal is all through as a star fighter. If so, the ring game has lost one of its finest characters, a youth who always gave the public everything he had in the fighting line.

As for the dope, Lowery kicked it overboard. His victory was the biggest surprise of the indoor season.

LONG DISTANCE SWIM FOR CHAMPION

There has been considerable talk about a match race between John Bray of Medford who won the New England A. A. A. long distance championship swim down Boston Harbor and William "Pudge" Murphy of Lowell.

John Bray

Bray, who claims the American long distance swimming title, would be pleased at any time between now and Labor Day to meet Murphy in a fifteen mile ocean swim.

The champion has the backing of many friends who are already willing to post from $1,000 to $5,000 against anything that Murphy wishes. Already Bray is ready to go and is practicing daily at the L Street bath.

DRISCOLL, TIERNEY AND WOODRING FOR OLYMPICS

By TOM THORP.

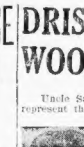
Uncle Sam does not lack for the want of 400 meters talent to represent the United States in the Olympics at Paris this Summer.

Joe Tierney, Jake Driscoll, Allan Woodring, W. E. Stevenson, Walter Koppisch, Vernon Aescher, L. Sweet and J. C. Taylor make a formidable array of quarter-milers to satisfy the most exacting mentor.

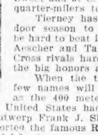
Tierney has shown enough during the late indoor season to make the experts believe he will be hard to beat in the Olympics. Driscoll, Woodring, Aescher and Taylor have been pressing their Holy Cross rivals hard enough to give each a chance for the big honors at Paris.

When the tryouts take place it is likely that few names will be added to the above list so far as the 400 meters test is concerned. It has been years since the United States had so many fast performers at this distance. At Antwerp Frank J. Shea, J. E. Meredith, R. Emery and G. S. Schiller sported the famous Red, White and Blue of this country. Each won his trial heat.

Shea was the only one to take a second trial test. He galloped home in front of his field in the fourth heat in 51 seconds, the slowest of the second trials. Schiller took second in another heat, while Meredith and Emery raced a third each in their trials.



"Jake" Driscoll



Joe Tierney.

Shea won the second semi-final in 49 2-5. In the final event the Pittsburgh star could not do better than finish fourth behind H. G. D. Rudd of Great Britain; G. M. Butler, another British star, and Engdahl of Sweden. He was the only American to finish in the money. The race was run in 49 3-5.

JOE TIERNEY HAS SHOWN GREAT CLASS.

The record compiled by Joe Tierney, the long-striding, game fighter from Holy Cross, is one that every local expert points to with pride. It is years since a man of Tierney's build has been running the quarter. His legs are long and rim-looking. When he breaks into his stride, one gets the idea that he is not going to see a record-breaking pace. Tierney's stride is so long that his legs do not appear to be travelling at a rapid pace.

Woodring staged a comeback up at Syracuse last week. The upstate star wrote his name in athletic annals when he won the 200-meters event at the Antwerp meet. In that race Woodring beat Paddock, Edwards of Great Britain, Marchison, Davidson of New Zealand and Ostedal of South Africa in the fast time of twenty-two seconds. It may be that Woodring has told a number of friends that maybe that Woodring will decide to compete in the 200-meters' event in preference to taking part in the longer race.

Tommy Keane, the Syracuse University coach, who is given credit for having developed Woodring, has told a number of friends that his star will do his training with an eye to the 400-meters' championship race. Keane did not allow his champion to overexert himself with indoor engagements.

JAKE DRISCOLL HAS BEEN IN GOOD FORM

Driscoll has been running some fine races. The fact the competition has been a trifle keener this season than for many years has kept Jake from taking all of the quarter-mile events around this section. However, when keyed up for a race at this distance Driscoll can hold his own in any company.

The fact that the Olympic tryouts will not come along until June kept Driscoll from reaching his true form as the past indoor season. The former Boston College star is an experienced man. He knows that if he burns himself out during the Winter he will not be able to run at his best when the tryouts come around.

Stevenson, Koppisch, Aescher and Taylor are just outsiders. Stevenson is waiting until the outdoor season to do his training. Koppisch had to lay off during the last indoor season because of a serious injury to his arm sustained during the past football season. The Columbia man intends making a hard try for a place on the Olympic team.

Sweet, the Illionis College star; Vernon Aescher, the Chicago flier, and Tatler have shown good speed in their trials this Winter, in fact, it may be from this latter trial Uncle Sam will find his next Olympic champion.

Today is the day that Boston American "Inspected-Insured" used cars are listed in the classified advertising columns. Look for the star beside the car.

LEWIS PICKS BAILEY TO WIN BOUT

Ed Strangler Lewis, the champion heavyweight wrestler of the world, is picking George Farmer Bailey to beat Angela Tarantadini in their English wrestling match at the Tremont Opera House tomorrow night. Ed has wrestled both men, and should have a line on the ability of them both.

Farmer Bailey

Bailey claims to have taken his famous chinlock from Lewis' famous headlock and claims that after one fall it is on Lewis that the champion was none too anxious to meet him again.

While Lewis is picking Bailey to win, Jack Albright, who has also wrestled both men, is out with a prediction that Tarantadini will win the bout, and that decisively. Jack Tarantadini is one of the toughest wrestlers in the game today and even better than when he wrestled Kotsaros last week.

Jack has taken a decided interest in the Italian champion and is now busy with Nick Bozinis in putting him in shape to put up the fight of his life. A win over Bailey will put Angelo right up at the top where he can demand matches with the best in the game. He is still waiting with his $1,000 to meet any of the so-called Italian contenders, but they have failed to put in their appearance.

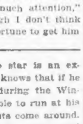
In the semi-final Miss Cora Livingston will defend her title in a finish match, best two falls in three, for the title and belt now in her possession. Opposed to her will be Miss Belle La Marr, the champion lady wrestler of France.

In the opening bout John Kilson, the roughouse Greek, will meet Sakis Toolos, another Greek, in a one-fall match, to see who is the champion roughhouse Greek of the world.

As an added attraction, Stanley Sleziak, the Lion of Poland, will meet Count Nicholos Zarynoff, the Russian nobleman, in a one-fall finish match. The Count is a newcomer in America, but has some wrestling that is a novelty in this country and will surprise those who have been a close student of the wrestling game for years. It will be one busy evening at the Grand.

JIMMY FARREN ON TRAIL OF WILLIAMS

Jimmy Farren, who has met many of the best featherweights in the country, including "Pepper" Martin, K. O. George Chaney, Cleveland Johnny Dundee and Earl Baird, has been training at the East Boston gymnasium for three months, and announces himself ready to battle any of the New England featherweights.



Eddie Williams.

"Red" Chapman, Johnny Drew, Steve Gustin, Newport Johnny Brown and Eddie Williams are selected by Farren as feathers whom he feels he can beat.

Farren has been reading much about Eddie Williams, who comes from the same section of East Boston, and would welcome the chance of swapping socks with his fellow townsman. "I fail to see where Williams rates so much attention," says Farren, "though I don't think it will be my good fortune to get him to agree to me."

EUSTACE MAKES BIG HIT WITH MAT STUNTS

Allen Eustace, with nearly a week to go before he gets on the mat next Monday night at Mechanics Hall with "Tiger" Peak, has already worn his wrestling partners to a frazzle and he is already looking around for another group of rough, tough fellows who possess or think they possess wrestling qualifications.

Geo. Tuohey

About the only one of the trainers that is not busily broken up is Pat McCarthy, the Irish middleweight, whom Eustace uses in his slow session study work of new grips and combinations.

"I never say a man who can shift his grips the way Eustace can," said McCarthy. "I used to think that Cyclone Burns was one of the fastest men in the game, but Eustace outspeeds Burns or any other man I can recall.

"His head scissors is a terror and if he ever gets it on Peak there will be a lot of people up in Nebraska who will go broke."

B. U. YEARLINGS HAVE NINE GAMES ON LIST

A schedule of nine games faces the Boston University freshman baseball team, which already has started practice for the opening game with Wentworth Institute on April 16. Stanley Wilcox, a junior at the College of Business Administration, will act as coach. An array of former high school and school boy players are among the candidates.

Following the initial game, the team will meet Phillips Andover at Andover on April 19; Tufts freshmen at Medford, April 22; St. Johnsbury Academy at Northeastern Field, April 25; Allen Chalmers School at Newton, April 26; Cushing Academy at Ashburnham on May 10; Worcester Academy at Worcester, May 14; Attleboro High School at Attleboro, May 17.

RADICAL CHANGE IN YALE CREW IS MADE

New Haven, Ct., April 2.—Head Coach Ed Leader of the Yale crew has changed the seating of A. Lindley of Minneapolis from stroke of the second varsity eight, giving that position to Henry Reading Dorrie of New York city. Lindley was shifted to No. 6 in the second shell. Lindley stroked the varsity in the Harvard race and the second Harvard last year. When he reported two weeks ago he was placed at stroke in the third shell and last week promoted to stroke in the second. Dorrie has been pulling the third eight.

BRAVES PLAY DODGERS AT ST. PETERSBURG

By NICK FLATLEY.

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 2.—Pat Wilbert Robinson brought his Dodgers here today to give the Braves a real ball game. The Robins want to get even for the licking the Bancrofts handed them last week in Clearwater, 11 to 2, but their chances didn't look so good with Moore, Marquard and Genewich, who have won three in a row, ready to do the slab honding. The venerable Rube and the youthful Joseph are the best pitchers in the South this Spring, if you get what I mean.

Hanny was chasing all the regulars into the pasture, as his cripples have recovered, and there's only one more contest before the railroad training season opens. Stuffy McInnis can scamper about on his wounded leg, and Jack Kelleher's arm is as good as new.

Jack is attracting a lot of attention these days. Rob Smith seemed to have the third base job all put in his grip, but Jack, since his recovery, has been showing the boys something.

His pinching in a scrub game yesterday, was the big feature of a tight contest which the regulars squeezed 2 to 1. Jack wants to play all the time in Boston, and keeping him from that ambition will have young Mister Smith hustling all spring.

All the pitchers are now in pretty good shape, except Gene Lansing, whose arm hasn't shown any sign of recovering the stuff it showed down here two years ago. Gene hasn't been worked or hurried, and it looks to us as if he were about to parade out of the big leagues, which seemed to be his mutton not so long ago.

Young mister McGuire has the outfielders worried to death. This kid looks better every day. He has his arm and shortens his feet when he first arrived at camp, so he didn't put much figure in the early doings. But he has recovered and for three or four days has been right in the spotlight.

Rube Marquard

He nicked a Rube Marquard triple and a single in the Monday workout leading the entire squad with the slugfest. And he goes after hard balls with the natural grace of a Tris Speaker or somebody. Wish Felix in the lineshift, or just out of it, and Cruise showing no great signs of recovering form, the young chap has a splendid chance to be the first year out. He's sure to be there sooner or later, and the Braves might as well use him now, when the outfield isn't too good, and rapidly getting no more so.

McGuire was brought to the club by Judge Fuchs. He made a lot of noise in the Chicago semi-pro league and belted the ball for the Braves a long ball forth. He was recommended to the Judge by other clubs, but Danny put on the job first and landed him. He looks like one of those rare finds.

Joe Genewich

Joe Batchelder operated on for appendicitis Monday, emerged from the ether in good shape, and is now on what they call the road to recovery. He will have to stay here when the team leaves Sunday, but will be sent to his home in Wyoming as soon as the doctors judge him fit to travel.

Kentucky Caveman Boxer Vanishes; Found In Cave

Eddie McDonald, known to boxing fans of the Middle West as the "Kentucky Caveman," has his manager, Biddy Bishop, and his trainers on the verge of hysterics.

Despite the recent cold, the "Cave Man" disappeared from home three days ago and went back into the Kentucky "knobs" to live in the open.

One of his trainers, who had been hunting with the "Cave Man" last November, happened to remember that McDonald had remarked that a certain cave they discovered would make an ideal home.

Bishop secured an automobile, took along three husky boxers from his stable and went to the cave. There they found Eddie bending over a campfire preparing his dinner.

ADD EIGHT INCHES TO STADIUM TRAC

Twenty years of punishment under hobnailed shoes and tearing spiked shoes has worn away eight inches of gravel on the Harvard cinder track.

The Stadium track was yesterday resurfaced by Ground Keeper Enright. Eight inches of gravel was laid over the old surface to lift the track to its former level. The track is now in perfect shape, ready for the opening of track practice next Monday.

"Runners will probably find the track relatively slow at first," Enright declared. "But all new tracks are. A few months' use and ten will settle the surface and make it as hard and as fast as the best in the country."

REDS MAY PURCHASE FLORIDA GROUNDS

Cincinnati, April 2.—The Cincinnati baseball club is considering the purchase of Tinker Field, at Orlando, Fla., as a permanent training camp, it was learned here. The Florida State League club has not been a financial success, and it is said creditors are likely to foreclose and cut up the field into building lots.

Worcester, April 2—Charles L. Allen, president of the Norton Company, has accepted the appointment by Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, at the request of President Coolidge, as New England's representative on the St. Lawrence Commission.

Allen will serve with a distinguished company of Americans studying the opening of the Great Lakes to the ocean commerce through the St. Lawrence River, and the development of 1,500,000 horsepower in hydro-electric energy.

COOLIDGE LOSES TO LA FOLLETTE IN WISCONSIN

Milwaukee, Wis., April 2 (I.N.S.)—Senator Robert LaFollette was leading President Coolidge two to one in early returns today from the Wisconsin primary. Governor Al Smith of New York was ahead of William G. McAdoo for the Democratic Presidential endorsement by a ratio slightly under five to three.

Light voting was reported from most of the State on account of snowbound roads, but it was expected that Milwaukee, due to intense interest in a hand-fought mayoralty race, would poll a record vote.

Mayor Daniel Webster Hoan, Socialist, won over former Mayor Davis.

STUDENT ANTI-NEGRO MOVE FROWNED ON

New York, April 2—Graduate students at Columbia University, who threatened to quit residence in Furnald Hall unless a negro law student was ejected, today faces the assertion of Dean Hawkes, chairman of the committee on residence halls that "if a student finds his surroundings uncongenial there is no need for him to stay."

Frederick W. Wells of Tennessee, whose friends said he formerly had attended Yale and Ohio State on terms of racial equality, was the man whose residence was protested.

Although the matter has not been brought to the attention of university authorities officially, Dean Hawkes indicated the probable action on any report submitted by the house committee of Furnald hall.

"It has not been the usage to exclude any man from the residence halls on the ground of his parentage," he said. "There have always been negroes at Columbia as well as students of other races, and no discrimination is countenanced."

Among the lodgers in the hall are Japanese, Chinese, Hindus and students from European countries.

LA FOLLETTE STICKERS BY LIGNITE PEOPLE

Washington, April 2 (I.N.S.)—Charges that the lignite mines and other private corporations flooded North Dakota with LaFollette stickers to save President Coolidge in the recent preferential primary reached Washington today.

The chief motive behind the coupe, it is said, was to split up the Coolidge opposition in the State and make it possible for the President to win out as a plurality randidate, while the long range objective was to gain favor with the administration to be used in influencing rail rates on lignite, which is a fair substitute and a potential competitor of anthracite.

SLAYER OF BARRE GIRL FOUND INSANE

Montpelier, Vt., April 2.—George Pruneau of Barre, charged with murder of 12-year-old Leona Tracy in that city last August, was found not guilty by reason of insanity in Superior Court here today. The jury was out all night.

SCALLOPED TOMATOES

Take Hathaway's Cream of WHEAT Bread one or two days old. Cut in thick slices and rub on grater enough for one and one-half cups. Melt one-third cup of butter, pour over the crumbs and mix evenly with fork. Sprinkle bottom of greased baking dish with ½ cup buttered crumbs. Drain most of the liquid from 1 can tomatoes. Put tomatoes on the crumbs, sprinkle with 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, few drops onion juice and 2 teaspoons sugar. Put remaining crumbs on top and bake in hot oven or 400 st degrees F. until crumbs are brown.

BREAD AND BUTTER PUDDING

Take 1-3 loaf Hathaway's Bread, 24 hours old. Cut into slices, spread with butter and cut in dice enough to fill two cups when packed lightly. Scald 2 cupfuls of milk over hot water. Add bread to milk with ½ cup sugar; remove from fire and let stand until cool. Beat two eggs slightly with ½ teaspoon of salt and 1 teaspoon vanilla and add to bread and milk.

STEAMED FRUIT PUDDING

Put 2 cupfuls of stale 1-3 pound of figs through a food chopper two or three times. Add to them 1-3 pound or 1½ cups of buttered bread crumbs, 1 cup sugar, 2-3 cup cream, 1 teaspoon salt. Turn into greased steamer 3 hours. Serve with cream.

Note—These recipes are from the new Hathaway Recipe Book, by Alice Bradley.

Club Sandwich

Dear Aunt Mary—There is an art in making attractive sandwiches which you no doubt have mastered, but even the best of us is always open to suggestions for making our dishes better

Here's one of the sandwich recipes from the new Hathaway Recipe Book by Alice Bradley. It certainly makes a wonderful club sandwich.

Cut Cream bread in one-third inch slices and toast until a delicate brown on both sides. Spread one side with creamed butter, cover with a lettuce leaf, spread with mayonnaise dressing. On top of that lay one hard cooked egg cut in slices, cover with lettuce leaf, then slices of tomatoes and with three pieces of bacon cooked until crisp. Cover with another slice of buttered toast and cut in two diagonally. On top of sandwich put two small lettuce leaves holding mayonnaise dressing. Stick a cross cut slab into the end of a small gherkin and use as a garnish. Doesn't that sound appetizing?

Health for Children

Dear Mother—We appreciate your problem in keeping all five children in good health all the year round.

To make sure they get enough bread give it to them toasted. It is so much more tasty that way the children love it almost as much as cake—and it is so good for them. You know that the heat caramelizes the sugar in the bread, making it more easily digestible as well as more palatable.

You will find a host of new ideas in the Hathaway Recipe Book by Alice Bradley. It is really a worthwhile addition to your regular cook books.

English Monkey

Dear Bay State—Here is an excellent recipe for English Monkey. I take it from the wonderful New Hathaway's Recipe Book. You must get one: Soak two cups of bread crumbs 15 minutes in milk. Melt three tablespoons of butter or butter substitute. Add 1 1-3 cups (one-half pound) cheese cut in small pieces or chopped, and when cheese has melted add soaked crumbs and a few grains of cayenne. Stir and cook three minutes, add two eggs slightly beaten, cook one minute and serve over strips of toast.

A Woman's Library

Dear Educated—I got an idea from my husband's library that I know you will appreciate. He has a small library of "worth-while" books, and is very proud of them.

So I started my "Library Shelf," as I call it. I cleared a space on the second pantry shelf and put neat book ends there. Then I started the collection of a few well chosen books on diet and cooking. Now I have a library that I am proud of and my husband says that it beats his and certainly there is more "meat" in it.

I want to tell you especially about the latest addition to it—a gem of a little recipe book just printed by Hathaway's, who make such wonderful bread. The book tells how to make scores of dishes and I really think that I shall use every recipe before the year is out.

And the book is free. My dealer gave it to me.

I suggest that you start a library of your own, and get the Hathaway Recipe Book for the first volume.

SCHOOLDAY ROMANCE HAS CLIMAX IN COURT

MRS. CATHERINE F. LUCEY

Medford woman whose marriage has been declared illegal because it was contracted only five months after she divorced her first husband. Insert is Daniel J. Lucey (Photo by Champlain Studio), her second husband and girlhood sweetheart, who it is alleged deserted her.

Mrs. Catherine F. Lucey of Medford divorced her first husband, George O'Brien, and married her girlhood sweetheart, Daniel J. Lucey, of Malden, former divinity student just one month too soon.

That was the decision of Judge Dolan, who, in Suffolk Probate Court, dismissed Mrs. Lucey's petition for separate support on the grounds that the marriage was null and void because it was contracted only five months after Mrs. Lucey was granted a divorce.

Judge Dolan's decision automatically throws out a $25,000 suit for alienation of the affections of her husband brought by Mrs. Lucey against her mother-in-law, Mrs. Johanna Lucey of No. 268 Main street Malden.

The marital difficulties of the couple are of long standing. Lucey met the girl while he was a student at Malden High School, where he played on the varsity football team. He kept company with her later while he attended Boston College.

When he was graduated and his parents learned that he wished to [illegible] they [illegible] a strong protest that he was induced to leave Malden and go West to study for the priesthood.

DESERTION CHARGED.

When Lucey returned, after tiring of study, he found his former sweetheart married to George O'Brien. On October 26 of the same year, just five months after she was granted a divorce, the young woman and Daniel Lucey to Central Falls, R. I., and there married him.

CAST UP ON ROCKS IN HARBOR

Swim Ashore at Middle Brewster, Signal Sighted by Light Keeper

Read the thrilling story of the Brown brothers of Revere, shipwrecked and cast ashore on a lonely island at the entrance to Boston Harbor.

The brothers are Robert, twenty years old; Mathew, thirty, and William, thirty-five. Their home is at No. 474 Revere street, Revere.

MOTOR DISABLED.

They put out of Lawley's ship yard, Neponset, at four o'clock in the afternoon in their twenty-eight-foot motorboat. They started for Revere but had made only half the distance when the motor became disabled. The motorboat began to drift, while he attended Boston College. [illegible] ward [illegible] Middle Brewster Island, near the entrance to Boston harbor. The motor boat was drifting head on to the island.

The Brown brothers made frantic efforts to keep her off but in vain. There was a creak and a crash and the motorboat was dashed by the heavy sea against the rocky ledges of the mound.

The Brown brothers leaped for their lives. They fell into the sea and began swimming. In less than it takes to write it they had been cast up on the rocky shore of the island.

THEY EXHAUSTED.

Exhausted and thirsting for drinking water, the brothers lay down in the shelter of a camp on the island to await dawn.

When morning came the brothers got a white table cloth from the camp. They tied it to the top of a pole. Thus improvised signal of distress they put up on a high section of the island.

The distress signal was not seen by any passing ship. Captain John Hart, keeper of Boston Light, on Little Brewster, sighted the distress signal late in the afternoon.

He notified Captain John Acker at the Point Allerton Coast Guard Station. Captain Acker and two men from the station went to the rescue. Meanwhile, Captain Hart put out from the lighthouse in his power boat.

CRAVED FOOD AND WATER.

Captain Hart found the brothers in a sorry plight. They craved food and water and they were thoroughly chilled. They were taken to the lighthouse and there given food, drink, and warm clothing. Later they were carried to shore by Captain Acker and his coastguardsmen.

ARREST ARTIST ON BAD CHECK CHARGE

Raymond Capone, a Boston portrait painter and recent prize-winner, wearied of Sunday suit. He selected one priced at $35 in the shop of a Boylston street dealer, and gave a check in payment. Raymond was arrested by Inspectors Augusta and Ring on complaint of the clothing dealer, who charges that the check was worthless.

The accused is twenty-three years and lives at No. 260 Revere parkway, Everett. He told the police there was a mistake.

Capone further asserted that he was awarded first prize in the recent national exhibition of amateurs at the Horn Galleries in New York. He said his subject was the portrait of a boy, entitled "Adolescence."

FRENCH GOING AFTER YANKEE AIR RECORDS

Paris, April 2 (I.N.S.).—The French government is opening an offensive against American holders of aviation records, offering 500,000 francs in prizes to constructors of airplanes, seaplanes and motors for machines capable of bringing speed, distance and endurance records to France. Practically all the records are now held by Americans.

Performance is 96 per cent. of a car's value—perhaps more. Let the Boston American used car mechanics tell you what condition the used car is in.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON THE CHEMISTRY OF COLLOIDS

By Dr. Frank Crane

ONE of the most interesting branches of modern science is the chemistry of colloids.

Professor Harry Nicholls Holmes, of Oberlin College, recently described some of the latest discoveries in Colloid Chemistry, and the relation of that branch of science to modern life, in lectures at the Carnegie Institute of Technology at Pittsburgh. He described Colloid Chemistry as the Chemistry of grains, drops, bubbles, filaments and films.

The colloid particles are very small, indeed, too small to be seen with the best microscope. They are just a little larger than molecules.

They may be dispersed in liquids, solids or gas; or loosely aggregated as in cheese, muscular tissue, cellulose and the like.

Roughly speaking, Colloid Chemistry has to do with gluey or sticky stuff.

Discoveries in this branch of science may be of enormous benefit to mankind in increasing its food supply. Wheat, for instance, has enough of the sticky material called gluten to make good bread dough. Corn, rye and other grains have not enough colloid properties to permit the manufacture of a satisfactory, light, porous loaf. Therefore, if the colloid chemist can so change the physical properties of corn, rye and oats so that they will stretch out like the best wheat, he will add untold wealth to the world and do much towards checking famines.

There is a good deal of waste in coal. If the coal dust is made colloidal, it can be used in a fluid and sprayed like fuel oil and burned under boilers. This colloidal fuel would be excellent for ships because the fire hazard is less than that of oil.

Dr. Holmes also showed that new processes of this branch of science might be utilized for de-inking old newspapers so that the pulp can be worked over into fresh paper.

The matter is also interesting to the wood industry. Large timbers are becoming scarcer and we are forced to use timbers built up from smaller pieces. The glues we now use greatly limit the period of usefulness of glue to woods. They weaken too soon, for all glues are colloids mixed with water and when they dry they tend to take up moisture from the air and thus weaken. To change these glues so they will not rehydrate after drying, and yet will retain their adhesive power, is a problem of great importance.

All of this illustrates the enormous value which investigations in the chemist's laboratory have in commerce, manufacture and the everyday affairs of life.

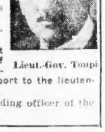
Fight Press 'Gag' in Rhode Island Senate

PROVIDENCE, April 2.—Rhode Island newspapers are up in arms over the censorship of the news from the State Senate which has been established by Lieutenant-Governor Felix A. Toupin, Jr.

The lieutenant-governor has announced that all reporters covering the Senate sessions, shall call on him each day and submit their reports for his inspection. The penalty of being barred from the Senate and not permitted in the chamber during the present session of the Legislature has been fixed by the lieutenant-governor for those newspapermen who do not abide by the censorship order.



Lieut.-Gov. Toupi

Several newspapers have announced that they will fight to the finish against the effort of Mr. Toupin to muzzle the press and they have refused to permit their reporters to make any report to the lieutenant-governor on the news written by them.

Mr. Toupin, by virtue of his office, is presiding officer of the Senate.

GIRL ACCUSES "SUNSHINE FRIEND"

"When a woman reaches the point where she asks for mercy, she is through. Well, I have arrived at that stage, and accept my defeat—that is what the world wants me to do. It doesn't want a girl to go straight. I know, for I have been through the mill."

Mrs. Gladys Cunningham Butler of Saugus, who, the police allege, was head of a gang of auto thieves working along North Shore, swears that when she is released from jail the rest of her life will be spent in "making the people who tricked me pay."

"A man, pretending to be my friend and Booth's, has ruined us both. While Booth took the risks and gave him the fat proceeds he treated us square. When the test came he turned coward.

"This man and his wife, who are looked upon as 'nice people,' are going to pay, if it takes every ounce of strength in my body.

"Booth may be a thief and an abductor. I do not care. I love him. I first met him three years ago when the world looked as black and cold as it does now."

3,500 Chorus Girls Are Reported Jobless

New York, April 2.—'I call for a handful of chorus girls revealed that at least 3,500 of them are out of work. As the season for road shows is nearing an end, it is estimated that the number of unemployed soon will run as high as 5,000. They will be concentrated in this city.

30 YEARS OFF AGE BY X-RAY

Rejuvenation Method Old, Dr. A. F. Christian Says; Warns of Danger

"The fact that ten, twenty or even thirty years can be taken off a woman's appearance by the X-ray treatment is not a new discovery, as proclaimed by New York doctors, but has been practiced by Boston physicians for more than twenty years," declared Dr. Andreas F. Christian, Back Bay specialist.

"I see no reason why the restoration of youthful beauty by the X-ray should not be made a part of the work of every clinic," said Dr. Christian.

"The younger a woman starts to restore her youth the more lasting will be the effect of the treatments. Of course we can't expect to make a schoolgirl out of a woman of seventy, but up to that age she can be made to look younger."

TREATMENT DANGEROUS.

"I would not advise any woman to go shopping for X-ray beauty treatments, for the X-ray is dangerous unless its operator is a physician with sufficient experience to know how much heart different skin textures can bear. Different methods are required by different types of skins.

If they are pitted and scarred the old skin must be burned off until a new layer replaces it. In other cases the treatment need only stimulate circulation.

"Women who have been depressed mentally by ill health and rapid failing beauty could be speeded along the road to good health if they knew they were also regaining good complexion.

"When a woman first resorts to X-rays she would have to undergo a series of treatments lasting from two to ten weeks. After that she may require only one or two treatments a year.

MUST HAVE HEALTH FIRST.

"A smaller X-ray machine is used for the beauty treatments. Its purpose is to shorten the gravity of muscle fibers and prevent drooping of muscles due to age. It draws red corpuscles to outer blood vessels.

"Women must realize that external beautifying must go hand in hand with treatment of the inner woman. Digestive troubles, blood disturbances and other functional disturbances must be remedied.

"Let the woman in quest of beauty through the X-ray consult her family physician first. As he restores her to health he can administer the beauty treatments, or refer her to an X-ray specialist.

"Dozens of Boston physicians have been giving these treatments for years. They were originated by the late Dr. Nils R. Finsen at Copenhagen in 1900."

MRS. BIGNEY BOOSTS CLAIM TO $100,000

Mrs. Harriet Bigney of Malden now wants to collect $100,000 instead of $50,000 from her alleged father-in-law, Col. Sidney O. Bigney, Attleboro jewelry manufacturer and one-time member of the Governor's council.

She has charged him with alienating the affections of her husband, Harold O. Bigney, who, without having obtained a legal separation from her, is now living with a fourth wife, it is charged.

When lawyers for Mrs. Bigney filed their motion to increase the ad damnum in the case, which was filed in Middlesex county superior court, Col. Bigney countered with a motion to reduce the $50,000 ad damnum to $5000. Hearing on these two motions is marked for Friday before a judge sitting in equity in Boston.

CHARLESTOWN GIRL MISSING A MONTH

Police of City Square station have been asked to help find Beatrice Hand of Charlestown, who left her home February 21 and has not been seen since by her foster parents. The girl is 13 years old but looks at least three years older. She registered at the Franklin Square House, and at the Y. W. C. A. under other names.

She wore a blue skirt, Paisley waist, three-quarter length brown overcoat, low tan shoes and brown velvet hat. She is five feet one and a half inches tall and weighs 100 pounds, and is a brunette.

SUICIDE BARES MYSTERY OF ARCHDUKE

"John Orth" of Austria Died Monday; His Ward Kills Herself in N. Y. Apartment

New York, April 2 (I.N.S.).—The death of a man believed to be the Archduke Johann Salvator of Austria and the suicide of his ward, Miss Grace Wakefield, a few hours later disclosed a tragedy today—perhaps the final scene—in the fate-ridden Hapsburg line.

It also unveiled the secret of the Meyerling mystery, which has baffled the world for thirty-five years, wherein the Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria and the beautiful Baroness Marie Vaisera were done to a tragic death.

A few hours after his death in the Columbia Hospital Miss Wakefield returned to her apartment and ended her own life.

Thirty-five years ago the weak, degenerate son of the Emperor of Austria, Crown Prince Rudolph, was enamored of the lovely Baroness Vaisera. They were at a shooting lodge at Meyerling when they were found dead. The tragic double death was published so temporarily by the Emperor.

Before the Crown Prince's death he had turned over to Archduke Johann the strongbox, said to contain letters revealing the plot against the Hapsburgs. Until he had this in his possession, the Archduke went before his Emperor. He unbuckled Francis Joseph for the time only. Suddenly Johann broke his sword in two and, stepping closer, slapped his ruler's face.

For this unheard of act he was driven from the castle. He sailed away on his private yacht. But he carried the strongbox of the crown prince with him. He ran his boat ashore on the shores of Brazil. His ship was destroyed, reported wrecked in a storm, and he was said to be drowned. Really, he changed his name to John Orth and came to the United States. He was simply satisfied with money. In Seattle he became close friends with a man by the name of Wakefield whose daughter, Grace, he adopted.

SUES AGED HUSBAND FOR NON-SUPPORT

Brockton, April 2.—An "autumn" romance struck a marital reef in the District Court here when Ryan Hinds, aged seventy-six, well-to-do resident of Franklin, was brought before Judge C. Carroll King, charged by his bride of a year with non-support and abandonment.

Today Mrs. Heaton charged that her husband abandoned her and went back to his home in Franklin to live, and that he refused to support her. She further claimed that he had presented his son in Milwaukee with a batch of shares in the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad and with two $1000 bonds, with other securities.

FAMILY JUMPS TO ESCAPE HOME FIRE

Manchester, N. H., April 2.—The home of Elmer Perrico on the Daniel Webster highway, in Bedford, near the Merrimack town line, was burned with a loss of $3,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hilbon and their children, who occupied the building, escaped by jumping from second-story windows.

YOUTH IS DOOMED AS SLAYER

Former Military Academy Cadet Slew Man Who Was Abusing Poor Cripple

New York, April 2.—Powerful influences are at work to save the life of Walter Muir, New York boy of twenty-one, a former cadet at the Clason Point Military Academy, who is condemned to die by hanging in Bordeaux prison at Montreal Friday, for the killing of a man at Valley Field, Que., September 22.

Leading the fight in New York for the sparing of the youth's life is the Duchess E. De Richelieu, wife of the great-great-nephew of Cardinal Richelieu, who from her town house at East End avenue and Eighty-sixth street is directing a campaign by telegraph and long distance telephone.

CONSUL-GENERAL WIRED.

The Duchess E. De Richelieu sent telegrams to the Canadian Minister of Justice at Ottawa, and to Viscount Meredith, president of the Bank of Montreal.

The latter replied that he had taken up the matter immediately with the American Consul-General to see what could be done.

The Duchess E. De Richelieu, the former Miss Elinor Douglas Wise, well known in New York society, interested herself in the youth's behalf through the efforts of his mother, Mrs. May Muir, a dressmaker, of East 163d street.

Miss Muir was in Montreal to lay siege for her son. A hard working woman she spent her entire resources, amounting to $3,000 to save the life of her boy.

SOUGHT TO SCARE MAN.

The Duchess E. De Richelieu explained the case as that of a first offender, and added:

"The poor boy, from facts we have obtained, had no idea of killing the man. He attempted to frighten when the latter was abusing a cripple. From what I learn, young Muir had always been a good reputation, until he became involved in the unfortunate affair.

"The shooting took place twenty-two miles north of Montreal at Hotel Windsor in Valley Field. The man the boy knew as Lavalette was maltreating a cripple when Muir interfered and said nobody could get away with anything like that in the States.

ARRESTED AS SLAYER.

"Muir was apparently then threatened by Lavalette and he drew a pistol and fired at the floor to frighten him. The bullet rebounded and struck Lavalette. He did not seem to be badly wounded, but later blood poisoning set in and he died.

"Muir was arrested and convicted on a charge of murder. The trouble is that in Canada there are no varying degrees of murder or manslaughter as here in the United States. If a man is killed in self defense by another it is murder and the penalty is hanging."

COOLIDGE ADVISERS SURE OF NOUINATION

Washington, April 2 (I.N.S.).—President Coolidge's campaign advisers regard his nomination on the first ballot in Cleveland as certain. They base hopes concentrating upon such side issues as the platform, the contest for vice-president, who is fifty-fifty. The President has already in excess of 500 delegates pledged or instructed for him at Cleveland, and his managers declare that by the end of this month he will have a sufficient number of delegates "sewed up" to insure his nomination.

FREE RENT BILL CAUSES ROW IN COMMONS

Labor Backs Measure Blocking Evictions When Tenant Is Out of Work

London, April 2 (A.P.)—The "reddest piece of work yet attempted by the Labor government" is the description applied by the ministry's opponents to the bill dealing with rents and evictions which comes up for its second reading in the House of Commons today and which promises to cause a big political row.

Sponsor is the Minister of Health, John Wheatley, whose action in erecting virtually free han dto the Poplar guardians in the matter of unemployment relief raised a storm which for a time seemed to threaten the existence of the infant government.

The main feature of the bill, which repeals some recent legislation, is that a tenant shall not be liable to eviction for non-payment of rent when such non-payment is due to the tenant's inability to get work. All the provisions of the measure are retroactive.

The Conservatives have risen in arms against the bill and given notice of a motion for its rejection, while many of the Liberals are apparently equally hostile, and even some of the moderate Laborites are said to be doubtful of its wisdom.

Its opponents declare the measure is iniquitous and ask why the landlords are singled out to bear such a burden; why not equally compel the grocer and butcher to provide food for nothing.

Voters Paddle Their Way in Skiffs to Virginia Polls

Wheeling, W. Va., April 2.—About one-fourth of the voters of Benwood, a milltown south of here, went to the polls in skiffs because of Ohio River flood conditions.

The municipal election campaign was one of the hardest fought on record, and the voters rented, borrowed or made skiffs in which they paddled to the polls.

SMALL NATIONS FLOAT LOANS IN NEW YORK

Short-Time Notes Given Them Pending Readjustment of Foreign Exchange Rates

Washington, April 2 (I.N.S.)—Many small European nations are playing a big part in commercial financing to protect their currency exchange rates, treasury and department of commerce officials declared today.

Within a comparatively short period several nations have floated loans in New York to meet the cost of goods purchased in this country and elsewhere.

Among the short time credits floated are those by Finland, Denmark and Czecho-Slovakia for $10,000,000 each and $2,000,000 for Sweden. Unlike the emergency loan of $100,000,000 to the French those of the smaller nations are to be repeated to meet annual trade conditions.

By the use of this money these nations are endeavoring to level out the fluctuations of their currency rate that result from seasonal variations of commerce.

This country holds four-tenths of the world stock of monetary gold, or approximately $4,210,000,000. During the last year the net import of gold was $294,000,000.

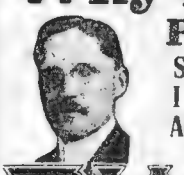
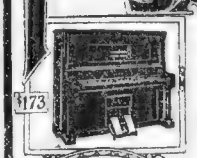
Why I Sell PIANOS So Low That I Am Talked About.



J. P. COLLINS

PIANO SALE



New Upright Pianos

New Player Pianos

Baby Grands

Are you aware, my friends, that I am known all over Boston and New England as the man who would rather sell 100 pianos at $1 apiece profit than sell one piano at a profit of $100?

I have often been asked by piano dealers, business men and friends why I am willing to accept so small a profit on the sale of a piano.

My answer has always been, I am doing such a big business that it is absolutely necessary for me to carry and move quickly an enormous stock of pianos.

CHICKIE

The Beautiful, but Bluntly Honest Story of a Boston Girl

By ELENORE MEHERIN

Seething Life of a Lovely Boston Girl of This Strange Today

"THEY rode. She slid low in the seat, glancing up at him, already tremulous with relief and pleasure. She said airily: "Twice seven days in this week. Not so!"

There were indeed. Funny case came up—" He began to talk quite rapidly and brightly. And she was always a little in awe of his mind.

He knew so much and moved so freely a hundred times she had never even heard. Wrongly she would have liked much better if he had just bowed down to her saying wittily: "Ah—I miss the dear fool!"

They stood in the wet, sweet air and a boy from Lynn at a North shore park. The gate stood open dark and free. No bell, no siren for one swift moment to catch at about her. "Love has the first right! Not so, Chickie? Don't you know that? By heaven I know it. They were cowards."

"What should they have done? What, Barry?" She felt her heart swelling, holding her breath mute.

"What none of us has courage enough to do—well—it goes."

His arm dropped from her quietly. She thought with instinctive understanding "He doesn't want to love me! He fights against it. He's afraid to love me."

A dozen times her hand went reaching to his arm. She drew it back.

He kissed her good night and waited as though he wished to say something. She wouldn't help him, would not look up. She was dismayed at all silences.

He could feel his freezing in her. She would not help her. Beat down. Indeed, she would.

She said to herself bitterly as she hung up the lovely green voile "Well, Stella, ole thing—stretch yourself out and be walked on."

The next morning—Saturday—she didn't phone to Jake.

As 1 o'clock approached the pale nervousness that all morning held Chickie mut with excitement had just mounted to pain. She caught up the telephone, put it down again, biting her lips. No—let the date stand!

She had suffered last night. Lain awake long, aching hours after Barry Dunne had gone. Her young ardent heart all aglow with the consuming tender purity of a first deep love, drew back to itself the flame it had offered. The flame burned inwardly with a deadly hurt.

But [illegible] would love on—he was making that gentle plea. It would interface with him. He had work to do—success to win. Brush away obstacles—love—nor—anything—

Even in the dark of her own room; even lying with her face against the pillows, her tanought, pained proudly, ordered the tears back. She should break her heart about it! She should throw away her youth widely hoping and waiting as Stella Wilson did. Better to let it end—now—

In the dressing room she put the small blue hat conquettishly down to her dark, appealing eyes, setting a touch of gold hair show at her ears. She would look gay, she would laugh merrily. No one in the world should know.

But she went out of the building to the limousine where Jake waited and at every step her trembling apprehension grew. She cast about anxiously like one afraid of pursuit.

At Jake, swerving his hat low met her she stepped breathlessly to the car. She wanted to get in—be off—escape.

She took her seat. She looked up—then down. For a moment her pause reeled. Barry was there—on the sidewalk—staring, first a shock, then a fury—of accusation in his eyes. He bowed and passed. Chickie's day was ruined.

She had a crazy impulse to jump out and run after him, stop him on the street and explain—oh tell him how her heart was broken. She sat limp and motionless.

Jake appeared not to notice. He became busy with the engine. She was thankful for that.

But when he saw [illegible] riding with the lobster supper. It with her fork and [illegible] her shoulders stiffened [illegible] vivid mouth, rich with much eating, sobered.

"Got something [illegible] you, Helena Bryce. Kindly note [illegible] of your good friend Jake sitting opposite you. See that [illegible] limbed lantern jaw yonder? Follow with the pretty little black wrench?"

She laughed.

"Well—he made me what I am. Because of Long Woodman and a thing he did ten years ago, Helena and I are able to spurn chorus laborer today. Please ask me how come."

"How come me?"

"I enjoyed [illegible] I was [illegible] a [illegible] Woodman [illegible] angrily to the scene. A hustler—a tremendous rival. In three months he had taken four of my clients, he had a machine. That got my goat—whipped me up. I threw off my coat and my gloves—I wore them in my dandy days—I went to it and won. Chances are I'd be grubbing by at $200 a month to this day if it hadn't been for Lloyd Nothing puts you up on the business or love—like a sizable second busy on the job. You didn't know that, did you, Chickie, my dear?"

Her face quiet as if pale, stained brightly. Not venturing to raise her eyes, she replied: "You're very clever. Like [illegible] know almost as much as Jakuba."

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

"It didn't seem right to me," said Chickie.

Do You Know the Great City of "Victoria"?

FEW who are not earnest students of geography could tell you of the city in China of large city named Victoria fewer still could give it

The explanation is that Victoria is commonly referred to as Hong Kong. Hong Kong is situated about a mile off the southeast mainland of China. It belongs to Great Britain, and Victoria is the capital of the colony, which not only includes the island of Hong Kong with an area of [illegible] square miles, but several square miles of mainland ceded from China at different periods.

The harbor of Victoria is very commodious and always busy. It is full of shipping from all over the world, including warships of nearly every nation. It was Hong Kong that Dewey's fine squadron was lying when war broke out between Spain and the United States and the British naval officer, against the American, as far will Admiral Dewey, that they were going to certain destruction against the forts at Manila and the guns of the Spanish fleet.

Although Victoria has been a British city for nearly a hundred years it is still unmistakably Chinese. Of the quarter of a million inhabitants more than 90 per cent are Celestials and the overwhelming majority of the Americans far will Admiral Dewey, that they were going to certain destruction against the forts at Manila and the guns of the Spanish fleet.

Although Victoria has been a British city for nearly a hundred years it is still unmistakably Chinese. Of the quarter of a million inhabitants more than 90 per cent are Celestials and the overwhelming majority of the Americans and Europeans live in the area of one square mile, and their average about 1,000 to the acre.

The European quarter of the city is typically British colonial in character, pleasant gardens, [illegible] villas, superb government houses and a few business blocks. The streets are thronged by mariners of all nations, the shops are full of treasures of the East and West.

The villas of the well-to-do Chinese and Europeans run well up the side of the mountain known as the "Peak." A few miles away at the other side of the island, is Stanley, an attractive watering place, where the climate is milder in the summer time than in Victoria, where it frequently touches 100.

Across on the mainland of China is an attractive suburb of Victoria. Every Eden has its serpent, and Hong Kong possesses a few [illegible] enough. The population suffers more from the ravages of white ants than from snakes. However. These insects are a pest in British have not been able to exail cats.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

POOR men with bald heads can [illegible] too become wealthy by renting their scalps to advertising concerns.

A WELL WHIPPED ad on a [illegible] head is [illegible] being more results than a thousand.

THIS would be a wonderful medium for department stores. Think of all the advertising they'd get every time a man tipped his hat to a lady.

OF course they'd lose a lot of money if he weren't a gentleman and never took off his hat.

BUT no man would want to stand in the street with a sign on his some woman read the dozen bargains on his [illegible].

HOWEVER, they'd be bound to get a lot of good out of the advertisements in court rooms and churches where a man has to take his hat off.

THERE'S no limit to the firms a bald-headed man could work for. It [illegible] from saloon to [illegible] parlors.

OF course he couldn't get much money out of hair tonic.

NOT unless they hired him to show what a head looked like before using their product.

A MAN who's bald might just as well be sensible and go to a phrenologist and have his skull divided up into advertising spaces.

EVERY barber would soon become a sign painter.

A RUBBER stamp would be all right, but most firms would rather have their ads engraved so that they wouldn't lose their money every time you got a shampoo.

THEY'D naturally, have it in the contract that you couldn't wash your scalp without their permission.

ONE concern had a lot of cards printed and wanted bald headed men to tack them up.

THEY even tried to screw electric light bulbs into one man's skull so that their ads could be read at night.

HE asked them if they couldn't [illegible] gas instead?

HE admitted that his parents had neglected to wire him for electricity.

A MAN who's bald ought to get something out of his head instead of just turning it over to the files.

HERO OF HISTO

By Mark Sullivan

The Way Anna Warner Won the Name, "Heroine of Groton"

AFTER the burning of New London by the British in 1781, and the defeat of the army, under the command of Benedict Arnold, [illegible] the people of Groton across the river [illegible] to help them. [illegible] resulted in a massacre of many innocent people. [illegible] was a hero, who lay in the [illegible] of it. But mind, [illegible] that [illegible] and fam[illegible]

Such, in a very [illegible] was the beginning of all. It was [illegible] Anna Warner, who soon [illegible] to be [illegible] her to bring [illegible] to [illegible] him.

At [illegible] returned to her [illegible] a hero [illegible] up [illegible] the wife, who at that time [illegible] one [illegible] the child [illegible] was [illegible] by the [illegible] of the house on which her [illegible] was living to the dying soldier [illegible].

[illegible] through Anna's [illegible] and initiative that the poor [illegible] was finally [illegible] [illegible] but this [illegible] and the [illegible] and suffering which Anna had seen during this disaster, caused to grow in her heart a violent hatred for those who considered oppressors of her country.

As a result when, in 1812, the [illegible] of peace was declared in Europe, [illegible] path [illegible] rose to its [illegible]. It was during this [illegible] that [illegible] short [illegible] [illegible] the title of [illegible] Hero of Groton," and since [illegible] in the community where she lived, her name has been [illegible].

It was on the thirteenth of July in 1813, that the quiet little town of Groton was thrown again into [illegible]. By an equadron of [illegible] ships [illegible] out the [illegible] of New London.

[illegible] on the river were [illegible] with people who surged [illegible] in confusion and despair. [illegible] was made to rebuff the [illegible] which seemed imminent, and during the excitement it was discovered that there was no flannel with which to make the [illegible]. To further the despair [illegible] no time to ferry across the river to New London to obtain the necessary article.

It was Anna Warner—now grown to full womanhood and married to Captain Bailey,—who saw the seriousness of the predicament. [illegible] full of resolution and [illegible] for quick action returned to [illegible].

With all [illegible] she set out and, going from house to house, [illegible] to ask for flannel, which they gave gladly.

A touching instance was recalled where, in her enthusiasm, Anna stripped herself of one of her garments to contribute it to the need. Seeing her unselfish example, all those who were near fell into the spirit of the thing and soon there was enough flannel to make the cartridges with which to repulse the unexpected attack.

There is no more popular character in the history of New London than Anna Bailey. She was a remarkable woman, in whose breast burned real love of her country, which she lived to see obtain the freedom for which she so passionately longed.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

Are men beginning to resent authority?

Are workers beginning to resent bossing?

Is the march of democracy leading towards the abolition of power at the top?

Is industry in future to be conducted through counsel and co-operation with labor and no longer by the dealing of orders?

* * *

Even before the World War swept away various dynastic royal rulers were being dethroned. Then throne after throne crumpled and fell during that upheaval. The Tenth Exiled King," read a recent newspaper headline.

Nor was that all.

In the United Kingdom labor asserted itself as never before. And now Britain is under the rule of a labor government for the first time in its long history. New Zealand and Australia had already set the Motherland an example.

Industrial has made significant progress towards freedom from governmental domination by Italian Fascisti. Egypt rose in rebellion against Britain's rulership and now exercises an unprecedented measure of political freedom.

The British Colonies are no longer under the thumb of Britain's Foreign Office. They have asserted their freedom.

* * *

At home, what is happening politically?

The authority formerly exercised by the two dominant parties is disintegrating. The President can no longer issue commands confident that they will be obeyed by leaders or members of his own party. The power of party leaders over their "followers" has weakened not to say disappeared. The arrival of this new condition is illustrated by the bristling up of the old-time parties into blocs.

Like Britain, we have not been free from trouble with our non-English-speaking wards, in Cuba and the Philippines. The current agitation in the Philippines is strictly in tune with the times.

* * *

But there is another trend. In certain respect it is a contradictory, an incongruous trend.

This is the trend—the lurch, one might say—towards dictators. Doubtless it will prove temporary.

Russia deposed and assassinated the Czar, and set up Lenin and Trotsky, two absolute autocrats and dictators. Italy has switched from a race towards socialism and communism to Dictator Mussolini. In Turkey, there arose Kemal Pasha, who has acted the part of a Cromwell towards the country's parliament.

The Spanish King became but a pawn in the hands of Dictator Primo De Rivera.

The Greek Venizelos was summoned to take hold of the helm in Greece without stipulation or restriction.

Germany sought a dictator, and had there been a Napoleon or a Cromwell or even a Trotzky ready to step forward he doubtless would gladly have been given carte blanche rein to set up a one-man rule-ship.

Hungary has her dictator in the person of Admiral Von Horthy.

At home, in church government, a revolt against centralized authority is agitating many minds.

* * *

May not the explanation be that the royal rulers who have been deposed were NOT chosen by their subjects, by their citizens, whereas the new dictators have been chosen and set up—at least theoretically — by the people themselves?

The forward-looking executive and employer will not ignore plans or proposals designed to bring his organization into harmonious with the march of human progress. He will not scoff at plans for profit-sharing. He will not pooh-pooh talk for effecting "employe representation." He will not neglect the possibilities of stock ownership by workers. He will not laugh at those executives who strive to run their organizations democratically and co-operation instead of by issuing autocratic, undiscussed orders and decrees. He will not set himself upon a throne and seek to rule this people as so many "dumb, driven cattle." He will not essay to arrest the rising tide of industrial democracy.

He will not be governed by what was possible in the past, but by what promises to be necessary and profitable—in the future.

NASH MOTORS LEADS GROUP HIGHER

Covering by "shorts" that started Monday in Wall street was resumed today with the natural result that prices went higher in issues where the limit element of the least bought.

Nash Motors led the auto group, up 3½. Numerous issues which had been subjected to heavy selling pressure recently rose as short covering increased.

American Agricultural Chemical preferred, Virginia Carolina preferred, American International, International Paper, Otis Elevator and American Smelting advanced 1 to 3 points.

The American Can stepped up more than a point into new high territory for the move.

General Electric extended its early gain to more than 4 points. American Tobacco B, with a 3½ point rally, led the tobacco shares into higher ground.

Erie preferred vied with St. Paul for leadership of the rails, with a jump of 2 points to a new 1924 top. A 6-point advance in Fisher Body enlivened trading in the motor section.

Call money opened at 4½ per cent. in Boston Stock Exchange trading. American Woolen and New England Southern Mills preferred rose a point. New England Telephone advanced around a point.

Blind and Crippled

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a woman who is unable to work, for I am almost blind and a cripple besides. I was told you helped the poor. I haven't anything to wear. I take size 38 and a 4 shoe. Is there anyone who would take pity on me? I would be very thankful.

Cinderella's Thanks

Editor Helping Hand:

I have received such dear things from the people whose addresses you sent me, but, to my sorrow, all for me alone. I am dressed from head to foot, so please don't worry about me any more, as I have as much as any fourteen-year-old girl could ask for. I only hope you can send my six-weeks-old sister some little things, as it is so hard with what I have to keep her sweet and dry. You know I take care of all six, as mother is just able to be around and can hear losing her, but God was kind to me and spared her for me and my little sisters and brothers. I'd be so happy if I had a dress for baby sister. Even a clothes basket would do. I put her in a chair now, but am afraid the kiddies will upset her. If you can get my ten-year-old brother a pair of pants he will be glad, as the "kids" all laugh at me. He is a good boy. All my little flock are good tots. Please accept my heartiest thanks.

CINDERELLA.

"Many Thanks"

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you please say "Many thanks" to all the kind ladies who have sent me so many nice things for my children. I cannot remember the addresses so as to write to them personally. I had put them all in one envelope, but I was so excited that I burned the envelope containing the addresses along with the wrapping paper and other envelopes. I don't know how to express my thanks, being a large family as I really grateful. It has brought us a different thought of life to know there are so many generous people.

MRS. R. F. G.

Offers Baby Carriage

Editor Helping Hand:

We have a baby carriage, not the latest style, but if the covering on the hood were fixed a little it would give lots of service to some mother that would like to give her baby sunshine. If you have any living in this city I would be willing to call and get or pay for sending for it to their home, they are welcome to it.

E. M.

Thank you indeed. There are many requests for baby carriages on file, but they are all so far away it would cost too much to transport it. We will hold your offer for replies, as we are sure there is some mother near you who would be very grateful for it.

Just Out of Hospital

Editor Helping Hand:

I am going to ask your readers a favor. I have just come out of the hospital, where I had twins. One of the twins has been very sick and is coming out of the hospital very soon and she will need fresh air. I would be very much pleased if someone would help me get me a twin carriage as I am unable to buy one. It seems as if ever since we were married we've done nothing but pay hospital and doctor's bills.

MRS. M. M.

Editor Helping Hand:

I want to give my thanks to the people who supplied me with violin books.

New England Has Everything Necessary to Make the World Beat a Path to Her Door. Chase the Knockers Into the Sea!

BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 1924

BOSTON AMERICAN

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

New England Needs Financial Minute Men in 1924 Just as Surely as She Needed Fighting Minute Men in 1776.

Minute Men, Now Is the Time to Silence New England's Knockers and Take Back Our Proud Place in the Sun

THE writer has returned from a vacation spent in "Devastated Europe" convinced that the word "Devastated," as applied by our luncheon o Europe, is more literary than literal.

DEVASTATED" Europe is out for American dollars.

"DEVASTATED" Austria was in the midst of the Vienna merchants' fair. Every hotel was crowded with buyers from America and elsewhere. Store windows and fair exhibits presented furs, enamels, bead bags, knitted silks (cheaper than knitted cotton), leather goods, machinery—an astonishing display of the awakened art and industry of the nation we had helped to whip in the World War.

"DEVASTATED" Germany, with a stabilized internal currency, was jammed with visitors to the Leipzig merchants' fair. Leipzig, a beautiful city of a million inhabitants, was the mecca of the world's buyers.

The South Station of Boston and the North Station as well could easily be housed within the great Leipzig terminal.

Every visitor was provided lodgings by the merchants' committee. Every theatre, store, public hall, and some beer gardens were used to house a display of goods ranging from locomotives, harvesters, concrete mixers and airplanes (at $500 each), to aluminum ware, lamps and clocks, jewelry, toys and radio sets (radio telephones at $1 a pair).

"DEVASTATED" France was receiving daily shiploads of American visitors and buyers. Paris modistes had so revolutionized the styles as to make a complete new wardrobe (with corsets) necessary for the American society woman of 1924. Train reservations had been sold out for seventeen days in advance to the "Lyons Feure," an astonishing display of wares and industries of France—laces, silks, lingerie, shoes, automobiles, musical instruments, radio and wines—for foreign consumption.

"DEVASTATED" Italy had hidden every shell scar in the Piave with new buildings; there were millions of windows waiting for glass. Venice was preparing for the big Summer carnival and sale to American buyers of laces, tortoise shell, food, knitted bags, corals, motor cars, jewelry and Roman silks.

"DEVASTATED" England was in the midst of preparations to outdo them all. A great city was in the building to outclass in splendor the World's Fairs of Chicago and St. Louis—the British Empire Exposition—a $100,000,000 show of the products of Britain from Canada to India, Australia to Egypt.

Each possession of the empire will be housed in exposition grounds fashioned by architects and landscape experts from the home colonies and filled with the various handiwork of the nation upon whose possessions the sun never sets.

Moving platforms with seats are being built to carry the visitor about without fatigue.

The greatest army of advertising genius the world has ever seen—the American Advertising Association—has been captured to exploit it.

These American Boosters are pledged to sail, 3,000 strong, to hold their annual convention in England (first time outside the United States), and to come back boosters for Great Britain.

Every click of the Wagons Lits over European rails hammered the thought into the writer's mind:

"HOW ABOUT DEVASTATED NEW ENGLAND? NEW ENGLAND, THE CRADLE OF LIBERTY, HEARTHSTONE OF THE REPUBLIC. NEW ENGLAND, THE GREATEST SUMMER OR WINTER RESORT IN AMERICA! NEW ENGLAND, ONCE THE SHIPPER OF THE NEW WORLD'S GOODS, INVENTOR OF THE NEW WORLD'S DEVICES FOR MASS PRODUCTION AND HOME COMFORT, HER BANKER, HER BUILDER, HER WARRIOR!"

Devastated New England! Devastated only by its knockers!

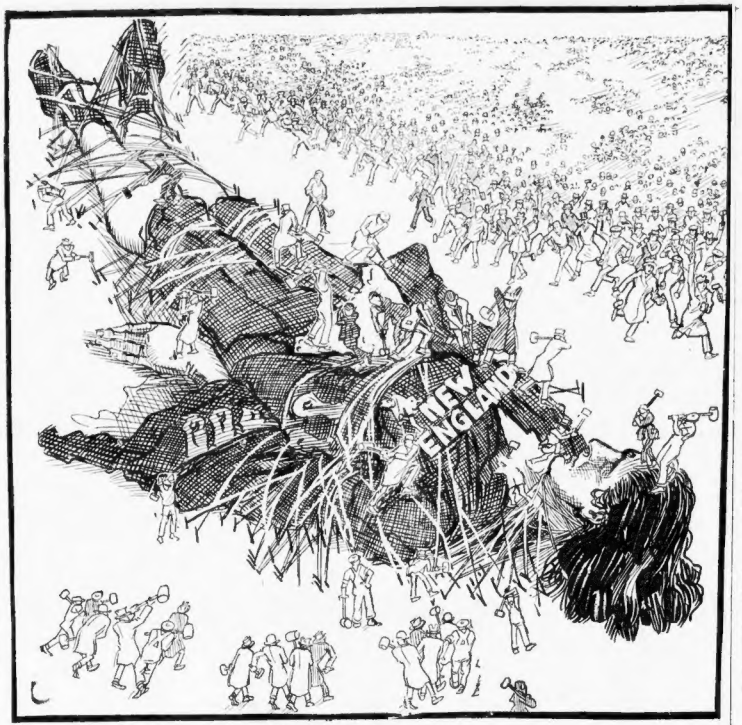
There is everything in New England that our forefathers found—but the idlers and knockers. They have been thrust upon us.

Now is the time to chase the knockers into the sea and restore New England to her proud place in the world.

We have the resources. We have the patience. We have the courage. We've got the goods! All that we need is a self-starter.

New England enterprise can bring wool from the Rockies, card it, spin it and weave it into fabric of such superior beauty and quality as to outvie the manufacturers whose plants are built at the source of supply.

New England can bring cotton bales from the South and sell better ginghams in the South than southern mills can devise.



BREAK THE BONDS!

If all the cattle in New England were slaughtered they would not provide enough beef to feed New England for three months. And yet we can go to the Mississippi for our hides and sell better shoes and bags to the residents of the Mississippi Valley than their own tanners and factories.

And we pay excessive freight rates two ways!

We make the copper market—with the nearest copper mine a thousand miles away.

We sell pianos, shipped by boat through Panama to the Pacific Coast in competition with coast builders. We make better pianos. We bring loud-mouthed boosters from California to spend the Summers at their estates on the cape, in the pines, in the mountains.

We can make better goods because we put the New England conscience into everything that we make.

And after that we surrender to the Knockers.

WE DO NOT KNOW HOW TO SELL—either our own goods or our own great home land.

Why should foreign middlemen, who live in New York, Chicago, or anywhere else take a bigger percentage of profit from the sale of our goods than we ourselves who design and make them?

Why should we not do as "Devastated" Europe is doing—BRING THE BUYERS HERE!

Why not a GREAT NEW ENGLAND EXPOSITION?

If war riddled Germany and Austria and Italy and France and England can organize for business so speedily and successfully, what is the matter with New England which though unscourged, helped to end the war?

Gentle reader, if we have succeeded in making you go this far, pause a minute to contemplate what a great thing it would be if we could get New England labor and New England capital to look upon an assemblage of its own products. Capital furnishes the money. Labor does the work.

Labor and capital together furnished the brains to make our electrical devices, our radio sets, our timepieces, our almost human mass production machinery, our textiles, our shoes, our musical instruments, our food products, our paints and building materials, and so many more things that occur to you as you read of the few things hastily set down here.

What a great show we could have!

And what a fairy land we could spread before our visitors with our temples of learning, our homeland pungent with historical romance, the games and water sports of our young, the pageants which our people who have clung so tenaciously to reverence and love for patriotic history might devise!

One of the biggest stockholders in New England textiles said: "It's not the eight-hour day of labor that is hurting New England; it's the five-hour day and the five-day week of the bosses. They do not work as their dads did nor as their help do now."

A young hustler said: "It's the dead hand of conservative money that is holding us back. They do not trust us to make New England hum as she did when they were young."

Said a labor man: "Our people have got to be turned back to think more of their work and less of their pay envelopes or we'll find more factories moving out while we sleep."

All may be right to a certain extent. The writer was impressed by the statement of Mrs. L——. Mrs. L—— has no right to think. She should be attending luncheon clubs and literary societies. Listen to her:

"The 'What Is Going On Tonight' column in the Transcript indicated twenty-one conferences of the New England Intelligensia to discuss foreign subjects and thirteen conferences to discuss home subjects.

"The New England Home Economics Society discussed 'Home Economics in the Balkans'; the Women's Club, 'Two Years of Russia's New Life'; The Boston School of Social Science, 'The Dilemma of France'; the Common Cause Society, 'The Commune of 1871'; Trinity Church, 'Russia From the Inside'; Twentieth Century Club, 'Behind the Scenes in Mexico.'

"That gives me a pain in the Pleura. The only discussions held by these foreign nations concerning us are 'How to Get More Money Out of Us,' or 'How to Evade Paying Us.'"

Says the average objector: "How could New England hold an exposition without money or a big organization? That would take years."

How does "Devastated" Germany do it right after the war?

There are no exposition grounds in Leipzig. There is no other organization save the people of the town. Boston could house its fair and house its visitors this Summer, as Leipzig or Vienna or Lyons, without raising a stick or a stone.

New England could bring the buyers and the visitors here for the Summer and keep its great trade marts open without erecting a new hotel or a single exposition building.

All of Boston should be the fair. That's the way they do it in Leipzig, Vienna and Lyons. The stores dress. The manufactories take such buildings as vacant bowling alleys, beer gardens, amphitheatres, public halls. Farm machinery, concrete mixers, hydraulic pumps and such devices are housed under tents in the public park. In some instances wire fencing is used. Admission tickets are of the commutation type. The visitors are taken by street car or taxi to the various exhibits, some of them ten miles apart.

Leipzig is three hours' ride from Berlin and Lyons an over-night ride from Paris. Yet Berlin and Paris merchants must be represented at the fairs of these smaller cities—because the world's buyers go there.

New York, Chicago and St. Louis will have to ship goods to Boston if Boston ever puts on a successful annual New England fair—to compete with New England goods in the eyes of the buyers.

Not a hotel had been built in Leipzig or Lyons or Vienna throughout the long period of the war. And yet every visitor, whether he went by train, motor or trolley, was almost immediately given lodgings—through the organized system of the boosters.

Upon alighting in Leipzig the visitor was confronted by station windows, each bearing a sign: "Lodgings for One Night, Two Nights, Three Nights," etc.

Before each window formed the line of visitors. Clerks had card indexed the residences of the city, with memoranda concerning baths, heat, lodging with or without meals, distance from the civic centres, car lines to take, streets on which to walk or drive, and prices.

Civic patriotism of the people held landlords and restaurants to fair prices.

Boy Scouts and university cadets acted as guides. They refused tips with the remarks, "Leipzig service to visitors."

We wished to hire a taxicab for the day. The driver said he would take us any place we wished to go, but he must take other fares. He refused double fare plus ten dollars extra to hire out on the hour plan.

"It wouldn't be fair to Leipzig. We must take as many visitors to see the sights as we can."

Banners were everywhere, not so many electric signs as we have at home. Leipzig's people made walking signs. Even the women dressed up to make a carnival. The directory of exhibits was as thick as a Boston telephone book. Exhibits were grouped and the city mapped. Not a vestige of war or devastation or sorrow was visible.

"See our strength?" asked Leipzig, as though surprised at its own massed evidence of industry. "We will get on."

The writer thought of Chicago and Mayor William Hale Thompson. Thompson had injured himself in the eyes of his constituency by undiplomatic actions during the war. The year was that of the near panic, just after the war. Thompson was trying to hold a Summer Chicago Exposition. His policemen, firemen, inspectors and ward workers almost had to force the exhibitors to take space in the exposition and the parade. The people and the papers thought of it as "Thompson's last failure."

Then came the opening day. Trucks and floats carrying the fruits of Chicago industry passed through the streets from ten o'clock in the morning until dark.

"How great we are," said everybody—even the knockers. Merchants who complained of having been clubbed in sold more goods from their exhibition floors than their whole salesforces had done for weeks. They sold to each other. Many persons wept for very glory in Chicago's strength. A few weeks later the discredited Thompson was returned to the mayor's chair by one of the greatest majorities ever given a candidate for that office.

California turned its weekly festivals into the "Year Round Club." Seattle has advertised with its Rose Festival. New Orleans bound trains are booked a month ahead for the Mardi Gras. St. Paul and Minneapolis have their winter fairs, and New England? . . . well, New England has its Devastating Knockers.

But New England has the people, the courage, the resources, the climate, the intelligence to make them all beat a path to her door.
